Mayone Wins Nod for Sheriff

KINGSTON

Ulster County GOP endorsed all its incumbent office holders with the exception of sheriff Monday night at the Republican convention at the George Washington School. And, the GOP changed its elected city chairman post to an appointive position with the present City Chairman Frank Fabbie expected to be named to the new post of vice chairman in charge of city affairs.

Investigator Thomas Mayone was the successful candidate for the nomination for sheriff out of an initial field of four, defeating incumbent Sheriff William B. Martin, and former Legislator Eugene Corey. The fourth contender, former BCI Investigator Charles Teelon dropped out of contention just prior to nominations.

Nominated to seek another term of office were: Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (25th District) and Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (26th District). The committeemen deferred nominating anyone for Congress in the (27th District,) where the incumbent Rep. Howard Robison has declined to seek another term.

Fish was nominated by James Martin, City of Kingston with Donald McCaig of Saugerties and Clarence Raichle, of Kingston, seconding the nomination.

Gilman was nominated by Albert Trautman of Marlboro with John Klein of Plattekill and Harold Ross of Shawangunk seconding the nomination.

State Senators Edwyn E. Mason (48th District) and Richard E. Schermerborn (40th District) also received nomination to seek another term. Mason was nominated by Legislator Stephen Hyatt of Town of Ulster with Benjamin Schecter, a Senate aide to Mason, seconding the nomination. Schermerhorn was nominated by County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago of New Paltz with Brendon Alexander of Kingston and Sol Rosenthal of Esopus seconding the nomination.

Both Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (101st District) and Emeel Betros (99th District) also received the party nod for another term. Bell was nominated by Robert Moser of Saugerties and Rhoda Mones of Kingston, made the seconding speech. Ralph LoFaro of Marlborough nominated Betros with Frank Rinaudo of Lloyd and Roger Elmendorf seconding the nomination.

Coroner Richard Buono was endorsed for another three-year term, nominated by Henry Breitenbach of Saugerties, Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Wawarsing and Gerard DeFelicis of Rosendale.

County Chairman Albert Spada presided at the convention and Clarence Anderson served as secretary.

Bell asked that the GOP redouble its efforts for all Republican candidates in what he termed, "a crucial year." He suggested that the Democrats sense that for the first time in 16 years, they have a chance to win.

Betros echoed Bell's words saying, "the opposition hopes to back into control of the Legislature."

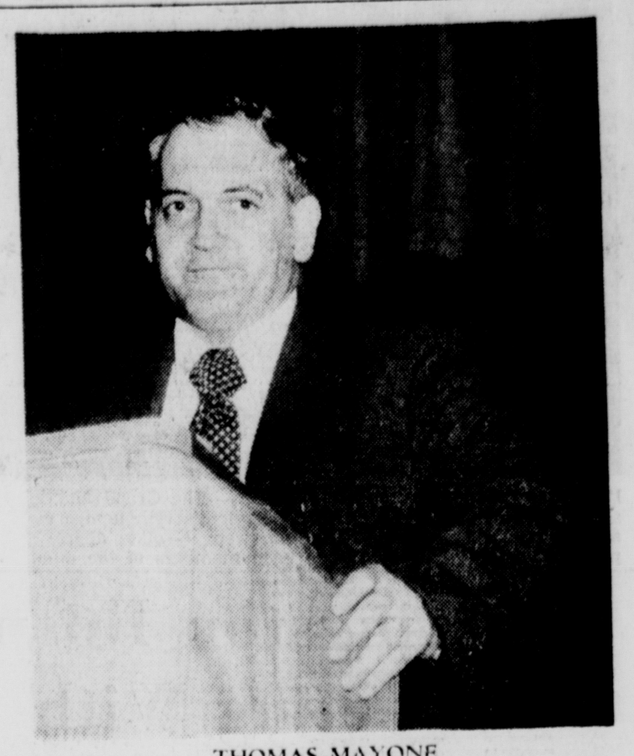

Mason spoke of Ulster County's representatives in Albany as "capable" and Schermerhorn predicted it would be "a tough year" because of Watergate.

"There will be no watergating in my district," he said. "If they (the Democrats) want street fighting, I'll street fight them."

Schermerhorn said that at the mere mention of Watergate, he would raise the subject of "Billy Sol Estes, Bobby Baker and Ted Kennedy." He suggested, however, that he would campaign "on the issues."

Gilman called the year ahead "difficult" and Fish could not attend the convention because of his present duties as a member of the House Judiciary Committee on Watergate.

Committeemen also named Doris Stang and Bell as state committeemen in the 101st District and Marie Rusk and E. Stirling Potter as state committeemen in the 99th District. Delegates were also named to the Third Judicial Convention and numerous persons were named to various committees on vacancies.

'Not Out of the Race,' Answer From Martin

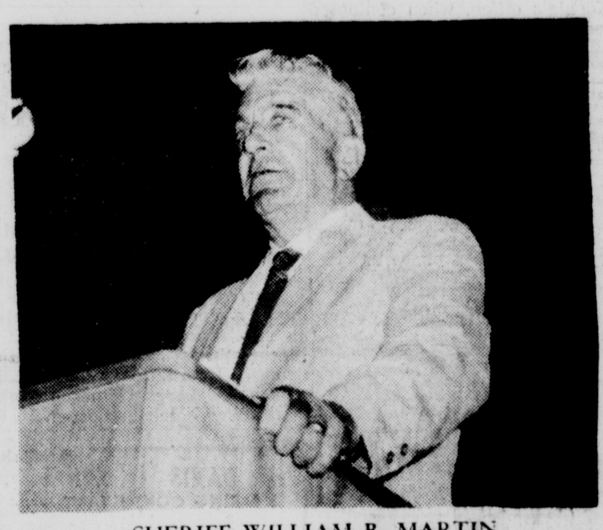

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Sheriff William B. Martin, who sought and lost the GOP nomination for reelection Monday night, has a choice: he can take in a Republican primary, he can run as an Independent or, he can run as a Democrat-Liberal, having already received the Liberal endorsement.

And, it is predictable that he will make one of those three choices for he told the Republican convention that, he is "not out of the race" and that he will make a statement in a few days. With the Democratic County convention scheduled for Wednesday, it is expected that his decision will follow that conclave.

What was seemingly unpredictable, prior to the GOP convention, was the victory of Martin's principal opponent in the race for the Republican nomination—Special Investigator Thomas Mayone. Mayone, lost a sheriff race to Martin six years ago by about 18,000 votes and was one of four in the field making the bid for the 1974 nomination.

SHERIFF WILLIAM B. MARTIN

Mayone's convention victory was seen as a loss for the Republican hierarchy however, due to the fact that party heads apparently favored Sheriff Martin, "a sure vote getter."

Committeemen were apparently of a different mind and took seriously County Chairman Albert Spada's statement's concerning "an open convention", for they went into the voting booths and made their choice—giving Mayone 128 votes to 92 for Martin. A majority vote of 112 was necessary for victory.

Mayone won on the second ballot however. At the start of the convention the four candidates were whittled to three with former State Police BCI Investigator Charles Teelon of Woodstock bowing out before being nominated. That left three contenders — Mayone, of Saugerties, Martin of Shokan, and former Legislator Eugene Corey of Shawangunk.

On the first ballot, Mayone received 104, Martin 98 and Corey 19. Corey was then eliminated and asked his supporters to throw their votes to Mayone.

Not only did Mayone pick up the 19 extra votes on the second ballot, but he picked up five more. One person who voted the first time, apparently was not present for the second vote.

An elated Mayone said there was no doubt in his mind that his victory was influenced by the recent investigation by the Ulster County Grand Jury, the State Department of Correction and a special committee of the Legislature into the administration of the Ulster County Jail and the conduct of Sheriff Martin.

"The Republican Party organization said it was going to be an open convention and it was proven that it was," Mayone continued, adding that he has the qualifications for the job and "will return the Sheriff's Department back to the people where it belongs."

Martin greeted his loss, he said, "with a heavy heart," personally "thanking those who stuck with him."

Later, Martin's brother, committeeman James Martin told the convention, "we will return."

Corey, in throwing his support to Mayone said the investigator in the District Attorney's Office was "not just a Republican tonight, but was always a Republican — an obvious reference to the fact that Martin was an enrolled Democrat for many years before changing his registration last year to Republican. Martin, in 1971, was endorsed by all four major political parties, Republican, Democrat, Conservative and Liberal. He has been refused Conservative backing this time around.

Mayone was nominated for sheriff by Paul DeLisio of Woodstock who said the key to the office this year is, "leadership" and "personal integrity." This is the keynote to all throughout the country, he said.

Alluding to the obvious split in the Republican ranks with regard to a choice for sheriff, DeLisio said it was "a real problem."

"Do we select a man or let age old political focus show us the way?" he asked. "Or, do we keep the status quo?

"Do we vote our conscience? "Do we select or do we accept?" he asked.

Mayone's nomination was seconded by County Legislator Charles Scala of Saugerties (R-Dist. 1), and Albert Eisele of the City of Kingston.

Martin was nominated by Peter Graham, an attorney from the Town of Ulster who labeled the sheriff "a dominant figure in local government. Citing crime and increased workloads," he said "the times cry out for a sheriff that is firm and fair." The nomination was seconded by James Van Vliet III of Marlboro, Thomas Thompson of Wawarsing and Jennifer Peeto of Saugerties.

Corey was nominated by Legislator Philip Davis (R-Dist. 5), of Rochester and Margaret Tremper of Shawangunk.

SEIU to Protest Union Election

KINGSTON

"We will continue our fight for representation," James R. Whelan, local organizer for the Service Employes International Union said today following Monday's announcement that the Civil Service Employes Assn. was the winner of an election held June 8 to determine the bargaining agent for Ulster County's 1,100 employes.

Late Monday the State Public Employment Board announced that CSEA was the victor by a vote of 375 to 348, a simple majority.

"There is a good chance to throw the entire election out," Whelan suggested today, "based on irregularities which are presently being documented."

SEIU has five working days to protest the election. A legal brief is being prepared.

"We are compiling the evidence," Whelan said, adding that, SEIU "definitely feels it owes it to itself and its supporters to follow through to the end." Whelan pointed out that SEIU did "better than anyone has done against CSEA."

Meanwhile, CSEA supporters here were pleased with PERB's announcement of their victory and have already called a general meeting for Thursday at 3 p.m. in the County Office Building to form a nominating committee to fill vacancies on their board caused mainly by those who defected to SEIU.

Mrs. Judy Murray, acting president, said that with PERB's announcement naming CSEA the sole bargaining agent, that both CSEA and SEIU should unify. After all, she said, "we all basically want the same thing."

CSEA had been negotiating with the Ulster County Legislature for a pay hike of $1,188 for each employe retroactive to Jan. 1. Negotiations have been held in abeyance for the past few weeks due to the election, Mrs. Murray said, adding that she assumes the two groups will resume their deliberations on not only the 1974 but the 1975 contract.

CSEA, a representative of the county employes for several years, secured 372 votes to SEIU's 342 margin in the June 3 election but SEIU challenged the count.

That plus a small amount of blanks cast halted CSEA three votes short of a needed majority.

PERB then took the more than 24 challenged ballots to Albany where 10 days later, with repreSetntatives of both unions in attendance, it opened and recorded the challenged votes.

Three votes went immediately to CSEA, giving it the simple required majority with the count halted at 375-348. There were 13 void ballots and 16 opposed to any union at all.

James J. Dolan, director of local government affairs for CSEA urged that employes of Ulster County set aside any feelings they had during the campaign and join solidly behind the CSEA.

He said CSEA is prepared to move directly from an election climate to collective bargaining. To be successful, he said, we have to be united in our efforts.

The campaign was marked with charges and counter charges and with CSEA firing Walter Parslow as president of the local unit once he defected to SEIU.

SEIU blasted CSEA for the firing and CSEA issued "a white paper aimed at negating the SEIU recruiting drive.

CSEA Acting State President Thomas H. McDonough came to Kingston just before the election "to lend visability to his organization's fight to remain the bargaining representative for county employes.

Like CSEA, SEIU also pressed for the retroactive $1,188 raise but took the credit for having issued the challenge to CSEA which resulted in county consideration of the proposal.

SEIU stressed that it was not fighting local leaders of CSEA but rather they were united behind them and their common goal of getting decent salaries.

CSEA contended on the other hand that SEIU included carpetbaggers from out-of-state who could not represent the county employes as well as CSEA.

Nixon Completes Mideast Tour

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — President Nixon ended his tour of the Middle East today with a promise of continued military and economic assistance to Jordan and an invitation to King Hussein for talks in Washington on "the strategy of future efforts to achieve peace" between the Arabs and Israel.

The President left Amman for an overnight stop in Portugal's Azores islands in mid-Atlantic. He will hold talks there Wednesday with the leader of Portugal's revolution, President Antonio de Spinola, before returning to Washington.

A joint Jordanian-American statement issued in Amman said Nixon and his royal host at the last stop on his five-nation Mideast swing discussed a whole range of issues and would resume their talks in Washington "at an early date."

Hussein and his wife, Queen Alyia, visited the United States last in March.

The statement promised a "special effort" by the U.S. government to assist Jordanian economic development and to "play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength.

"It was agreed that a joint Jordanian-U.S. commission will be established at a high level to oversee and review on a regular basis the various areas of cooperation . . . in the fields of economic development, trade, investments, military assistance and scientific, social and cultural affairs."

While Nixon and the king conferred this morning, Mrs. Nixon visited the Roman ruins at Jerash, 20 miles north of Amman. She told newsmen accompanying her that the President's peace initiatives will be successful because the Arab leaders he has talked to "know that war takes money away from the people."

Hussein hailed Nixon's "journey for peace" in a banquet toast Monday night but cautioned that "the final goal is still many milestone away."

Hussein said withdrawal of Israeli forces from some of the Jordanian territory captured in 1967 should be the next step and was "an essential prerequisite to any permanent settlement."

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger may have some reservations about the U.S. Nuclear Treaty with Egypt. Story, page 24.

The king said he hoped this disengagement of Israeli and Jordanian forces along the Jordan River could be accomplished "with the strong and friendly hand of America," an indication that he would welcome a Jerusalem-Amman diplomatic shuttle by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Echoing what Nixon's hosts in Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria had told him, Hussein also called for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory, restoration of Arab sovereignty over the Arab sector of Jerusalem, and recognition and restoration of the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people" to return to their homeland and determine their own future.

Nixon in response said the United States is attempting to inject "one new element" into the Middle East—the use of its influence to bring together leaders of nations with disagreements "to try to find fair and just solutions to these problems."

He said he could not tell where or when his journey for peace would end, "the important thing is that it has begun." He promised that the United States "will do all that we can to keep the momentum going."

Nixon and his wife spent the night at a royal guest house atop an isolated, well-guarded hilltop 10 miles outside Amman.

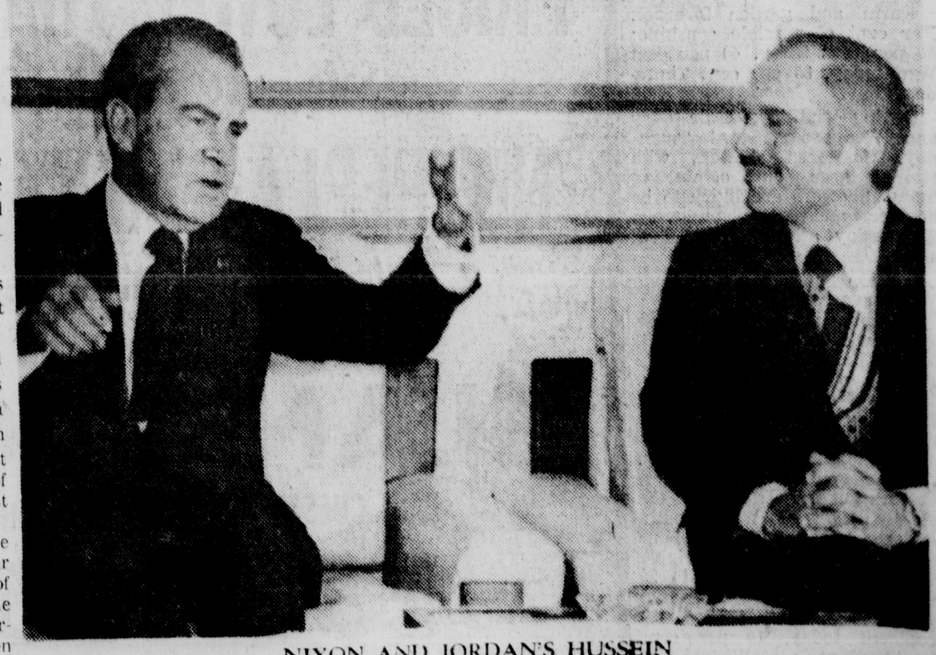

Protection for the President's motorcades was the strongest of his tour.

Meanwhile the UPI reported Israel said its warplanes attacked five Arab guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today just before President Nixon left Jordan at the end of his five-nation Middle East good will tour.

The raids followed by five days the attack by four guerrillas on the settlement of Shamir, 16 miles south of the frontier. The guerrillas murdered three women and then died in a hail of bullets and explosions.

Regents Scandal Widespread

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Eugene Gold says the sale of stolen questions and answers to state Board of Regents tests could be so widespread that his investigations may not end in prosecutions.

"There are thousands of students involved and it's impossible to arrest them all. And if you prosecute one, you have to prosecute the others," Gold said Monday.

Approximately 700,000 high school students across the state were scheduled this week to take the 21 achievement examinations that are the basis for awarding the state's highest academic diploma. High marks in the tests are considered critical for graduates seeking college admission.

The state Education Department canceled five of the exams over the weekend and scrapped four more on Monday. The last two shelved, in chemistry and physics, had at first been postponed, to permit the same questions and answers to be rearranged.

But they too were cancelled when authorities in Albany received reports that entire sets of the questions and answers were being bought, rendering any such rearrangement plan useless.

(Local school districts, however, reaffirmed today that the nine Regents cancellations will not prevent any seniors from graduating. And, in most cases, the canceled Physics and Chemistry Regents, announced last night, will be treated in the same manner as the seven previously canceled Regents.

There has been one significant change, however. The Onteora Central School District has announced that any underclassman who has a passing grade in a Regents course will receive Regents credit, even though the exam may have been canceled. The district is also considering giving its own comprehensive examination for students who were failing a Regents course, and who needed a good grade on a canceled Regents exam to pass the course. Onteora had previously announced that all underclassmen would be required to take new Regents exams in August or January. Students still have the option of taking a new Regents test to raise their overall grade.

Meanwhile, some district officials are predicting that more exams may yet be canceled before the week is over, with the possibility that the entire slate of Regents exams will be thrown out.

Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of the Kingston Consolidated School District, has announced the following changes due to cancellation of Regents examinations.

General biology, Group 3, exams will be held Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. Students in the classes of Mr. Lane and Mr. Alexeichik are the only students affected.

Students originally scheduled for the nine canceled Regents exams should not report to school for those examinations.

Textbooks normally handed in on the day of the examination in the nine canceled Regents courses must be returned to the main office of the local school no later than Friday, June 21.

All general chemistry (Group 3) exams will be held Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. Classes of Mr. Sayvetz and Mr. Getman are the only ones affected. All other exams will be held as scheduled.)

Kingston Hospital Officials Meeting With 'Consultants'

KINGSTON Hospital, which now considers its 1971 expansion plans "obsolete" — plans which incidentally called for the expansion onto the adjacent city hall site — will hire health care consultants to map the hospital's future.

Hospital officials are meeting today with consultants and expect to hire one by the end of this week for a thorough study of the hospital's present operation on Broadway and recommendations for its future.

Yesterday, hospital officials, city laboratory officials along with County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago and Majority Leader Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), met in Mayor Francis R. Koenig's office to review the hospital's August, 24, 1972 proposal to expand onto the city hall site at 408 Brodway. The old city hall was abandoned by the city in September of 1972 when municipal offices were moved to a new building at 1 Meadow Street.

Participants at yesterday's meeting agreed that Koenig, who called the meeting, would be the spokesman. However, Koenig's office, when contacted today for a report, said he was out of town on business.

The Freeman has learned, however, that no decisions were arrived at as a result of the meeting and that no future meetings have been called.

Koenig called the meeting, he said, because there were still questions on the hospital's expansion plans: who was going to construct and pay for a new city lab and the future of the tumor clinic, a county-owned facility.

The hospital is apparently willing to build both facilities, lab and tumor clinic, with the question of reimbursement to be worked out at a later date, according to reliable sources.

Koenig's statements that "no one has come forward" with a use for the old city hall was also challenged at Monday's meeting by hospital officials who produced copies of letters sent to former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan in 1969 and Koenig in 1970 offering to purchase the property.

Koenig has recently again come under fire from historic interests for "neglecting" the old city hall. No one from the historical sector was invited to Monday's meeting.

'69 Woodstock Festival Enough for Bethel Board

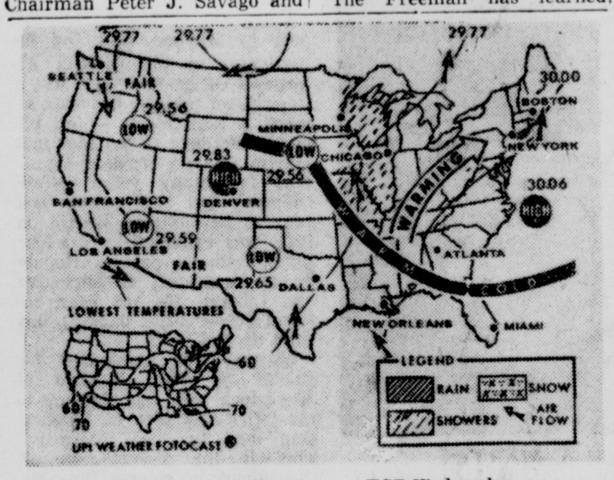

BETHEL, N.Y. (AP)—one rock music gathering, the celebrated 1969 Woodstock festival, was enough for this Catskill Mountain area, the Town of Bethel Board has decided.

The five-member board unanimously denied Monday night an application to stage a rock concert Sept. 7 at the Sullivan County International Airport, only a few miles from the site of the Woodstock gathering.

The board said the application by Concert Ten Inc. of New York City was denied because the concert "would be contrary to the public interest."

Concert Ten had said an estimated 250,000 persons would attend the gathering. Woodstock attracted 300,000.

The board said a concert "would adversely affect the property rights, order, conduct, safety, health welfare and well-being of persons" in the town.

Kalmbach Six Month Sentence Seen Harsh

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert W. Kalmbach is going to jail for at least six months even though he pleaded guilty for his part in the Watergate scandal and offered to help the prosecution.

The sentence Kalmbach received Monday from Judge J[illegible] J. S[illegible]a — between 6 months and 18 months in prison a[illegible] $10,000 fine — may indicate that the penalties for the men involved in the Watergate scandal are becoming harsher.

Another Watergate-related district court hearing comes today. Judge George L. Hart takes testimony on a request from Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to give immunity to convicted burglar E. Howard Hunt and David Young, a member of the White House plumbers, in exchange for testimony at the next week's trial of presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and four other men for the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Kalmbach, President Nixon's personal attorney and one of his top fund-raisers, entered a guilty plea in U.S. district court Feb. 25 to improperly organizing a 1970 campaign committee and offering a European ambassadorship to a big contributor.

"I want to say how deeply I am embarassed and how much I regret standing here this afternoon," Kalmbach said Monday, his usually tanned face pale and lined. Sirica gave him two weeks to get his personal affairs in order before he goes to a federal prison.

Kalmbach has already testified for the prosecution, and a month ago implicated former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans in his crimes. He said in the spring of 1970, Stans gave Kalmbach $1.1 million in checks and told him to use them for a congressional campaign program. Kalmbach also testified that he "advised Mr. Stans from time to time" on the "commitment" of a European ambassadorship to Maryland politician J. Fife Symington — which he never got.

Kalmbach is one of 31 involved in the Watergate scandal who have pleaded guilty out of 45 who have been before the courts. Five were acquitted. Jaworski has said he would accept guilty pleas to lesser crimes in exchange for a promise to testify, a practice called plea bargaining.

Criticism of the practice grew as former Attorney General Richard D. Kleindienst received a suspended sentence, a month's unsupervised probation and a $100 fine in connection with the ITT case — and may not even face disbarment. Charles W. Colson, one of the top men in the White House who was indicted for a series of Watergate-related crimes, was allowed to plead guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice.

The critics argue that guilty pleas for these crimes which carry short sentences and disbarment may cripple a lawyer's professional future, but they also give the public an impression that such politically motivated crimes as these are considered less serious than, say, a burglary where money or jewels are stolen.

Others allowed to plead guilty in exchange for testimony include former re-election official Jeb Stuart Magruder, who got a 10-month sentence for obstruction of justice; plumber Egil Krogh, who received a 2-6 month sentence for violating civil rights laws in the Ellsberg break-in, and Herbert L. Porter who pleaded guilty to lying to FBI agents and served 30 days of a 5-15 month sentence.

Some GOP Members Wavering on Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three or four Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee once considered probable votes in favor of impeachment are now wavering because, as one of them put it, the evidence so far "just isn't there."

"It's far too early to predict how this will come out — I'm not sure how I'm going to vote —but I'm disappointed," one of the key Republicans, said, asking not to be quoted by name. "The Democrats are blowing the case, as of now the evidence just isn't there."

He added there has been "some damaging evidence," but there are many gaps that have to be filled before he will make up his mind.

Another of the key Republicans agreed, adding: "The case is weak . . . it's not as strong as I thought it would be."

The Republicans' conclusions are important because the committee has already heard most of the evidence in the Watergate case itself, plus evidence in such key areas as the milk and ITT matters.

The committee hopes to complete closed door hearings this week, taking up the firing of Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox; Nixon's personal finances, including his income taxes; and his ordering of the secret Cambodia bombing.

While none of the Republicans has committed himself for some months it has been conceded that the minority members most likely to vote for impeachment were Reps. Hamilton Fish of New York, William S. Cohen of Maine, Thomas Railsback of Illinois and Robert McClory of Illinois.

Their votes are considered critical to the future of impeachment in the Congress.

One of them explained their role this way:

"If there are three out of 17 Republican votes on the committee in favor of impeachment, that's enough to make it bipartisan. Remember the Republicans on the committee are more conservative than the Republicans on the floor of the House.

"If there are three Republican votes in the committee, there will be 40 Republican votes in the House. If there is only one Republican, say, there will be very few in the House, and with the Southern Democrats moving over to our side, President Nixon will not be impeached."

Interviews with several Republicans on the committee, including some staunch Nixon defenders, gave this picture of the evidence so far — as they see it:

—There is strong evidence that the administration's settlement of an antitrust suit against ITT was based on traditional Republican attitudes toward big business and was unrelated to the company's pledge of $400,000 to the GOP national convention.

—The evidence indicates that Nixon's "primary motive" in raising milk price supports was pressure from Congress, not a milk producers' pledge of $2 million in campaign funds.

—Even most Democrats concede there is nothing impeachable in Nixon's ordering the secret bombing of Cambodia or his impoundment of funds authorized by Congress.

—Many of the political abuses carried out in Nixon's 1972 campaign were ordered by White House aides, but there is no evidence linking them to the President. As one Republican put it, "they've got something on everyone in the White House except Nixon."

—Much of the unrevealed evidence compiled by the committee tends to exonerate him, according to Republicans.

But there is one main item which the "swing" Republicans consider most damaging — the March 21 conversation in which Nixon appears to order hush money paid to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

The tape of an afternoon meeting shows Nixon saying ". . . get it" to John W. Dean when the question of hush money came up.

"That's why we have to have Dean as a witness," one Republican said. "No one ever asked him, 'did you tell (Frederick C.) LaRue to pay the money based on that order from Nixon?'"

The Republicans, including the moderates, are pretty much agreed that Nixon is not being given a "fair shake" by the Democrats in the committee.

'Nixon Wrong in Telling Aides'... Saxbe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says President Nixon was wrong to tell aides about secret grand jury proceedings on Watergate.

Saxbe on Monday defended Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen's actions in discussing with Nixon the grand jury investigation into the Watergate break-in.

Saxbe said he believes Petersen would not have discussed the case with Nixon if he had known "that it was thereafter immediately discussed with numerous people and leaked all over."

The attorney general was interviewed by columnist George Will for a program produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television.

Will asked him: "Who was doing something wrong?"

Saxbe answered: "Well, the President in discussing this grand jury material with Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman, or whoever came in the office."

Former top Nixon aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman now are under indictment in the Watergate cover-up.

Petersen headed the original Watergate investigation before a special prosecutor was appointed.

The transcripts of White House conversations released by the White House show Petersen frequently went to the President's office to discuss the investigation. The transcripts also show that Nixon passed this information to Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

"After the discussions (with Petersen), there were further discussions within that room on matters that Mr. Petersen had brought in about what was happening before the grand jury. And this was wrong," Saxbe said.

Saxbe defended Petersen's relaying of grand jury information to Nixon, saying, "Petersen's only boss at that time was the President of the United States and he had to look somewhere." Richard G. Kleindienst, who was the attorney general, had taken himself out of the case.

Saxbe also contradicted presidential speechwriter Patrick Buchanan, who last week said the composition of the Watergate grand jury is unfair to Nixon.

'Let People Decide'... Kennedy

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he lives every day with the memory of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne at Chappaquiddick.

Kennedy was the driver of a car that went off a bridge at Chappaquiddick in July 1969. Miss Kopechne, a staff aide, was killed in the accident.

The accident "is a very emotional personal tragedy to me and to the Kopechne family, and it is one that I live with every day and I regret very deeply," Kennedy said in a radio interview. "But there is really nothing other than indicating that sense of concern that I really can add."

The interview was on the Dick Levitan show on radio station WEEI.

Asked if the incident would have any effect on his future political plans, Kennedy commented:

"It may very well, but those are questions that that would have to be decided by the people themselves and as long as I remain in elective office, they will have that opportunity to express whatever view they have on it." In a separate interview Monday after delivering the keynote address at the 94th annual conference of the American Waterworks Association, Kennedy said "I have some very grave reservations about extending nuclear technology and knowhow to Egypt.

Four Members Of Family Found Slain

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) — Four members of a family were found slain in the basement of their suburban home after a fire broke out Monday, authorities said.

A fifth body matching the description of the eldest son in the Raymond Fuchs family was found in the kitchen of the modest ranch style home in the well-to-do Chicago suburb, officials said.

Fire Chief Norman A. Brown said the fire appeared to be purposefully set and could have been designed as a cover-up. He said oil and gas cans were found in the basement, where the blaze broke out.

He identified the victims as Fuchs; his wife Ruth, both in their 40s, and two of their children, Scott, 15, and Lynda, 14.

He said the bodies were wrapped in blankets and other bedding.

Conservative, Liberal Parties Tab Gubernatorial Hopefuls

NEW YORK (AP) — In party meetings over the weekend, the Conservative party designated Gov. Malcolm Wilson as its gubernatorial candidate this year, and the Liberal party has nominated party stalwart Edward Morrison.

Wilson faced the chance of a challenge from T. David Bullard, a Conservative party vice chairman who says Wilson is too liberal, however.

And the Liberal party action drew from dissidents the charge that Morrison was simply a stand-in who would allow Liberals to back the eventual Democratic nominee.

Morrison, a former deputy mayor and Liberal party vice chairman, denied that he was a stand-in while conceding he was undecided over whether to accept the nomination.

"If I accept, I will be a candidate for governor for the Liberal party through the November election," he said. "I would not consider my role as a stand-in role."

The Liberals also nominated incumbent Jacob Javits, a Republican for the U.S. Senate; incumbent Louis J. Lefkowitz, also a Republican, for attorney general, and incumbent Democrat Arthur Levitt for comptroller. Raymond Harding, Liberal party leader in the Bronx, and a secretary to state Supreme Court Justice Max Bloom, was nominated by the Liberals for lieutenant governor.

The Conservative meeting gave 40 per cent of its delegate votes to Bullard, a 35-year-old Schuylerville fruit grower, and the rest of the votes to Wilson.

Bullard's standing means he is automatically eligible to force a primary, and he said he is "opposed to supporting a liberal."

"If he were a Goldwater or a Buckley Republican, I would support him," Bullard said of Wilson.

The Conservatives also designated Nassau County Executive Ralph Caso, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, as their candidate for that office.

Barbara Ann Keating, a foe of abortion and pornography and widow of a Vietnam veteran, was nominated to run for the Senate seat held by Javits, and Bradley J. Hurd, 72, a retired lumber and construction businessman from Buffalo, was designated the candidate for comptroller. Edward F. Campbell, 45, of Huntington, Suffolk County party chairman, was designated candidate for attorney general.

Record Frosh Class at Skidmore

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Skidmore College is setting enrollment records while class sizes are dwindling at many other private colleges.

Skidmore, where tuition runs $3,300 a year, plans to welcome at least 600 freshmen, its largest class in history, this fall. Total enrollment is expected to top 1,900 at the upstate New York school.

One of the largest drawing cards is a new $34 million campus nearing completion on a 600-acre tract of wooded land northwest of Saratoga Springs, admission officials say.

A highly successful "admitted candidates day" was held April 13 on the new campus. Of the 246 students who attended, 83 per cent are now enrolled, said Peter Gibson, who organized the function for prospective freshmen and their families.

Of an estimated 140 private college in New York State, only about 30 are reporting significant enrollment increases, a state official says.

Skidmore's admissions policies are listed as "highly selective."

William T. Allen Jr., director of admissions, said the liberal arts school screened about 2,000 freshmen applications this year, offering admission to 640.

Admissions officers point to a number of other factors that have given Skidmore a competitive edge in the scramble for students.

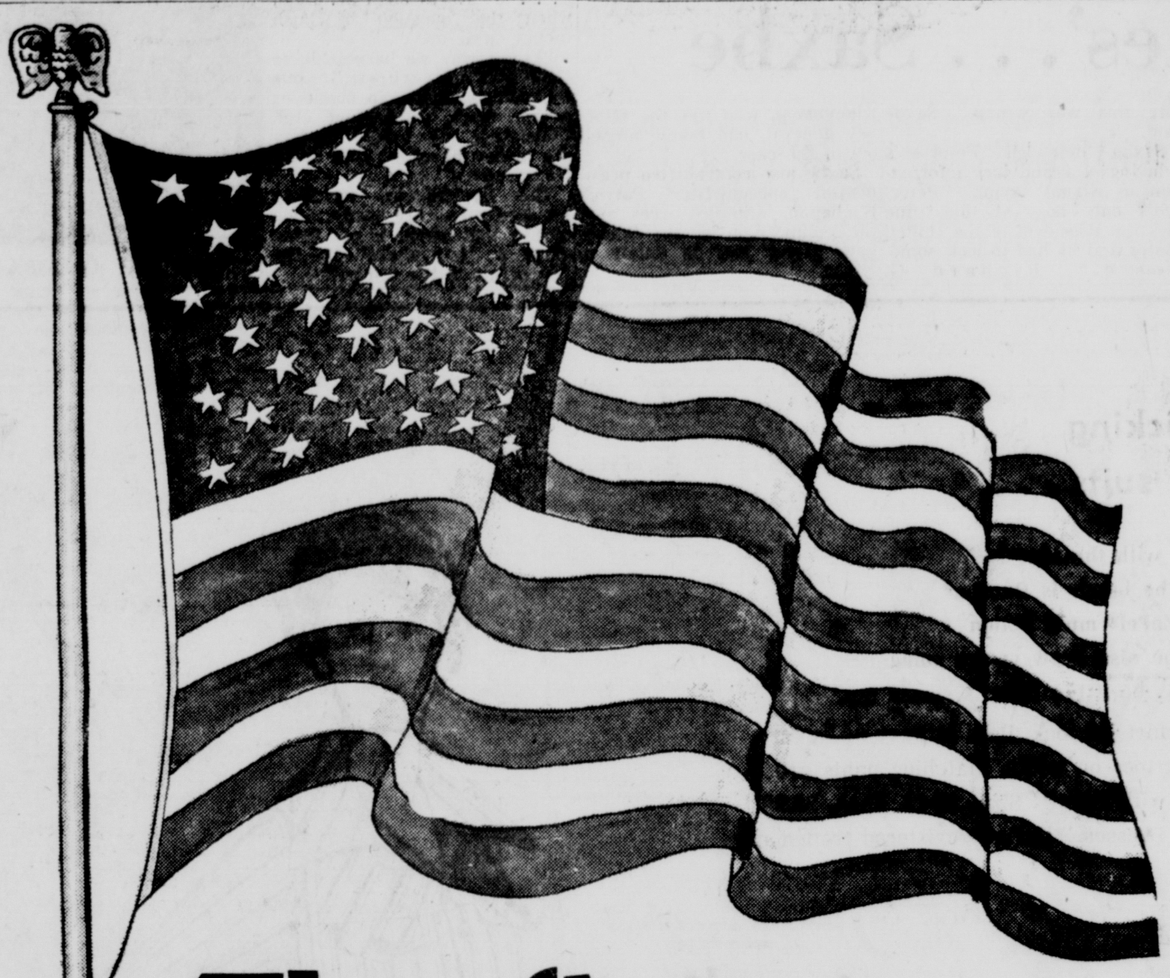

They include a unique nursing program in which candidates spend their sophomore and junior years at the school's New York City campus, and a dance program that features instruction from Melissa Hayden, former prima ballerina with the New York City ballet. There is also the newly completed Van Lennep Riding center, one of the best for a school Skidmore's size, school officials say. The college's location in a historic setting is also important.

"Kids who come here love the town," said Sibyl Waterman, a 1971 Skidmore graduate now working in the admissions office. "Kids stay on. They don't care what they do as long as they're here."

Saratoga Springs, nestled at the foot of the Adirondack Mountains, is a century-old horse and health resort which boasts opulent Victorian architecture.

Louise Wise, associate director of admissions and another alumna, credits alumnae for active recruiting.

The school's decision to admit men in 1971 also helped the admission picture, Allen said. About 300 men will be on campus next fall.

Jim Gage Recalls the Good Times As Saugerties Village Clerk

By CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES

If a man's life can be wrapped up in a single letter, friends of James V. "Jimmy" Gage would have given him a large block "S" at the recent retirement party in his honor. The letter would have represented sports, service and Saugerties.

Only a few people are as intimately bound up in the lives of their fellow men as the personable "Jimmy," who resigned after serving as village clerk-treasurer for 10 years under three different mayors.

A lifetime resident of Saugerties, with time out for Navy service, he says he knows "practically everyone in the village."

The clerk-treasurer's job is the focal point for practically everything in village affairs and the starting point for most complaints about municipal service. The pressures of the position led him to resign on March 31. He still hasn't settled on another job.

"I've had several offers," he said when asked about future plans. "I know one thing—I'm going to stay in Saugerties."

Not a surprising decision for a man so actively involved with the community for so many years. He graduated from St. Mary of the Snows parochial school in 1948 and from Saugerties High School in 1952. Then followed three years in the Navy as a disbursing clerk, a forerunner of his future work, with the Sixth Fleet (Mediterranean) and Seventh Fleet (Pacific).

Discharged in September, 1955, he enrolled for a two year course at Albany Business College, receiving a diploma in bookkeeping. After graduation he joined Styles Express of Kingston, a trucking firm, as an office clerk. He was promoted to rating clerk and dispatcher and when he left five years later had been named treasurer.

He joined the Saugerties Savings Bank (now the Sawyer Savings Bank), working in the mortgage department and later becoming teller in charge of master cash. The village received the benefit of all this clerical and financial experience when he was appointed village clerk in 1964.

Working for the village was just one of the facets of this busy bachelor's life. He is a member and past adjutant of Post 5034, VFW; member and past chaplain of Post 72, American Legion; member and past secretary-treasurer of the Saugerties Athletic Association; member of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company and the Exempt Fire and Police Patrol; secretary of the Babe Ruth League; chairman of the Saugerties Sports Hall of Fame Commission since its inception 11 years ago; and a member of the Saugerties High School Athletic Booster Club.

His hobbies? "I've played in the American Legion Euchre League for 20 years."

He has also maintained an active lifetime interest in more strenuous sports. At one time he served two years as umpire-in-chief for the Little League farm system, umpiring eight games weekly and he still umpires Babe Ruth games on weekends.

He is still active in a half-court basketball league and catches for Boo's Tavern team in the Saugerties Softball League. In winter it's bowling—Jimmy sponsors and bowls on the "Sports Huddle" team and sponsors a girls' team of the same name. The men's team recently took the league championship after several seasons in the cellar. He is hoping his girls' team can come through in like manner. Jimmy also manages the "Cuties" in the Saugerties Girls' Softball League, which seems like a good spot for a bachelor.

All of which eminently qualifies him for another position, that of sports columnist for the Old Dutch Star, with an emphasis on local reminiscences.

Does he think he will miss the clerk-treasurer job? "I'm sure I'll miss it," he predicts. "But it's like being in military service. After you've been out a while, you only remember the good times."

JAMES V. GAGE

Kissinger Victim of Leaks

It is important that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee act with haste in re-examining the sworn testimony given by Henry Kissinger prior to his confirmation as secretary of state.

Mr. Kissinger, the victim of irresponsible leaks, has every right to be angry over the innuendoes against him that have been coming out of the House Judiciary Committee. He is certainly justified in demanding that both the leaks and the innuendoes, which are ambiguous allegations about the wiretapping of several of his staff, be stopped.

It is hoped that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will practice restraint and caution to avoid interference with the secretary's diplomatic functions during President Nixon's Middle Eastern tour and impending visit to Moscow.

It is quite obvious that Mr. Kissinger's diplomatic skills have been important tools in peace efforts throughout the world. The appreciation for Mr. Kissinger's far-reaching efforts towards peace has been voiced by leaders of both political parties.

Because of this the secretary of state's threat to resign came as a shock to many in Congress as well as to others throughout the world.

With tears in his eyes, Mr. Kissinger told newsmen in Salzburg that he would resign his office if news leaks alleging he was directly responsible for, or involved in, wiretapping of his aides beginning in 1969 continued. He said such leaks defame his honor and reputation and are hurting American foreign policy.

Mr. Kissinger himself requested the review of the record before leaving the country. He has denied any improper behavior, and in consideration of his spectacular foreign policy achievements there has long been a strong reluctance to press any of the various charges made against him.

In a time for a compehensive probe of the evidence, including new information that may be contained in the White House transcripts. It is also time for members of the House to stop using the secrecy of the Judiciary Committee impeachment proceedings to leak information for political reasons.

It certainly is in the national interest that Henry Kissinger be encouraged to continue his peacemaking efforts until the issues is resolved by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Panovs Are Freed

The Soviet government's decision to allow Valery Panov and his wife Galina to emigrate to Israel is cause for celebration. No one can say why the Kremlin has relented now after so many months of inhumane treatment, but at the moment that is not of primary importance. The main point is that this couple made famous by their sufferings will again be free to pursue their chosen path.

Official word that the Panovs had been granted exit visas came after more than two years of punishment for having had the temerity to apply for them. Their harrowing experience would have aroused deep sympathy no matter what Panov was—a librarian, a plumber, a physicist, a medical technician. The poignancy of the case was made far greater by the fact that he was a brilliant star of the Kirov ballet, and indeed one the world's greatest dancers.

When the Panovs applied 27 months ago for permission to emigrate to Israel, he was dismissed from the ballet company and denied the facilities for dancing or even keeping in shape. After a time his wife, also a dancer with Kirov, was forced to leave the company, too. It is essential for ballet dancers to dance—to train unremittingly. Not to be allowed to do so is a kind of living death.

This denial of the privilege of dancing was not the full extent of the torture. The Panovs were subjected to various kinds of petty harassment, and to public calumny; in effect the Kremlin conducted a kind of psychological warfare against them.

Now at last this unrelenting pressure has been lifted. In a sense it may be too late; at 35, Panov will find it extremely difficult and perhaps impossible to recover his dazzling technique and energy. Still, he and his wife will at least be able to live their lives without fearing the oppressive hand of the Kremlin. The West will welcome and nurture them as free creative spirits.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senate Fiddles Its Time Away

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Throughout the Senate side of the Capitol, the three-bell alarm clamored urgently, summoning senators to the chamber. Into the great oval, its antique desks arranged in a graceful arc, they shuffled.

After answering to their names, some barged off again with the harried looks of men having more important duties. Others lingered on, waiting for the debate to begin.

Many profound issues cried for Senate attention: impeachment, detente, inflation, the energy crisis.

The two opposing senators shifted nervously on their feet as they braced for another test in the world's foremost forensic area. There was Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., sandy-faced, his short, husky stature giving him the appearance of a larger man standing in a well. A few desks away was Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a look of stern amiability upon his familiar face.

From the thronelike leather chair behind the marble rostrum, the presiding senator intoned: "The senator from Arizona is recognized."

For the next several minutes, Goldwater and Tower solemnly debated the merits of Arizona vs. Texas chili beans. They agreed to settle their differences in the way of the West, with a chili cook-off.

The scene was not at all uncommon. With the government in crisis, the people's elected representatives often pre-empt the floors of Congress to embark upon excursions into triviality.

Most of the time, it is true, they are engrossed in weightier matters, and perhaps a little comic relief should be welcome. But day after day, they pause from the momentous problems of our times to honor the winner of a local talent contest or to proclaim Future Homemakers of America Week.

They fiddle while the voters burn.

Congress still hasn't completed its work on campaign reforms, which would help clean up politics and prevent future Watergates from happening. Congress is also dawdling over reorganizational reforms, which would put its own houses in order. Yet the members found time for such antics as these:

— On a mad March morning, the House devoted almost its entire morning session to thunderous oratory over actress Jane Fonda's request for the use of a House hearing room. No less than 25 congressmen, with a great exercising of lungs, joined in the polemics. Others who missed the chance to declaim kept the debate going for two more days. Yet the issue was altogether moot, for the actress already had conducted her seminar in the hearing room several weeks earlier.

— The day after May Day, Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill., solemly rose to his feet to commemorate Constitution Day in Poland. Not to be outdone in their fealty to their Polish constituents, a score or more congressmen scrambled like spawning salmon for the House microphones to add their praise of Poland.

— It is part of the daily routine for members to wish one another a happy birthday, to congratulate one another on a new honor or, for no apparent reason at all, to adorn one another with complimentary verbiage during public sessions. No issue before the Congress, no matter how urgent, is permitted to interfere with the political backslapping and backscratching.

— Accolades are also bestowed, willy nilly, upon random constituents. Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Md., interrupted the Senate proceedings, for example, to inform his colleagues glowingly that his high school coach was retiring. Rep. Mendel Davis, D-S.C., brought to the attention of the House some essays written by school children back home. And a friend of ours, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., provided the House with a splendid account of what occurred at a luncheon we helped sponsor.

The droning, out-of-context oratory on the Senate and House floors, of course, isn't always a true reflection of the real workings of Congress. Individually, the average congressman puts in a 16-hour workday. He usually gives his constituents conscientious service.

But collectively, Congress remains hopelessly cumbersome. The seniority system holds back the brightest young men, whose leadership is needed in this swift-moving time.

The old men who run Congress, honorably though they may have served in the past, are placing an intolerable brake on the lawmaking machinery of the national government, already in desperate need of overhaul.

Never has the need of reforms been more urgent. But the members of Congress appear to be more interested in chili beans, Jane Fonda and school children's essays.

PARK IMPROVEMENT? Tourists are told that the profits from the sale of postcards, booklets and other mementos at national parks are spent on park improvement.

Never mentioned is that the National Parks Service demands 1½ per cent of the profits, which is euphemistically called a "donation," for a special entertainment fund.

The purchasing public isn't told that their souvenir dollars help pay for parties for the bigwigs.

Shockley Once Again

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

A contact with Dr. William Shockley serves to remind one how illpoised the academic community is to cope with its own. First they tell you that the colleges are havens for all ideas, that no one has anything to fear in the open society because we shall seek the truth and endure the consequences. Then along comes someone like Dr. Shockley, whose ideas grate on fashionable sensiblilities, and the academic community makes a fool of itself by its own standards. Meanwhile, the same community that deplores Dr. Shockley, who is merely an inventive dilettante playing chess with genetics, listens with great respect to Dr. B. F. Skinner who, if his notions about the nature of man were even believed, would make Dr. Shockley the Mr. Nice-Guy of the academic season.

I do not suggest that Dr. Shockley is harmless. He is in two senses harmful. First, he is a live carrier of scientific hubris. Second, his palaver encourages an Archie Bunkerite racial invidiousness. The same data that can cause Bunker to flow with feelings of racial superiority would be dismissed by such as Professor Ernest van den Haag — as irrelevant.

To begin with, Dr. Shockley doesn't believe in gas chambers for blacks. That will terribly disappoint a significant number of young gentlemen in Yale, N.Y.U., and Stanford, and I apologize for my role as dehobgoblinizer. It is true that sometimes he talks unguardedly about what "should be," and one remembers that desiderata are the seedbeds of totalitarian political movements. But even when Shockley is talking about what should be, it is, as stated, race-free. "Restrictions should be placed," he has written, "on the basis of sound genetics without regard to income, class, race religion or national origin. The breeding of good genetic material, whether the people are rich or poor, is desirable. We want more Lincolns, not fewer." That is Shockleyism.

And that, built on loose data suggesting that in I.Q. tests measured by Professor Arthur Jensen, Negroes tend to score a few points behind whites, has led to Shockley's doctrine of "dysgenics." Dysgenics, he explains, is "retrosgressive evolution through the disproportionate reproduction of the genetically disadvantaged."

Spread out, this says: a) poor people have more children than non-poor people; b) there are fewer bright people among poor people than among non-poor people; therefore c) the state should try to persuade poor non-bright people to have fewer children. Persuade? Exactly: Shockley proposes cash incentives for voluntary sterilization. One thousand bucks for each I.Q. point below 100 if you will submit to sterilization.

What's wrong with that?

It is hard to begin any discussion with rationalists, because there are no reciprocating gears. One might point out that in fact Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln didn't beget any Lincolns, whereas Mr. and Mrs. Carver begat George Washington. Or one might point out that the economic movement of the past decade among Negroes towards economic self sufficiency is more marked than among white. Or that, on the whole, bright people have caused the world a lot more trouble than dumb people. Or that the techniques of birth control are rapidly becoming known even among the ignorant, and still surer techniques are on the verge of discovery. And so on.

But meanwhile, how would the country look if everyone had the I.Q. of, say a, a Yale student? Or an Yale President? It is by such as them that the distinctions are regularly blurred: Shockley, who should be condescended to, is shouted down, and his hosts are likened to the mob. Skinner, who should be feared as the dominant contemporary spirit in the movement to dehumanize man, is received fawningly. Poor Shockley. He would probably be treated more sensibly and with more dignity by illiterate blacks in the Alabama Countryside, who in their own way have tamed George Wallace.

"Did General Stonewall Jackson get that name for 'stonewalling' it?"

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Knows What He's Doing

WASHINGTON — "Our greatest threat comes from no foreign foe but from those at home who seek to impose the power of negative thinking," our Vice President said the other day to a meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The NCCJ is innocuously toothless, but Jerry Ford could speak such pietistical nonsense before any group and not get hissed.

Since the death of Hippie and Commie Pinko Fag, we've left off heckling our politicians. The most tasteless non-denominational swill can come flooding out of their bazoos, and they're lucky to get out of the hall with but three standing ovations. Such are our good manners.

To Mr. Ford "the prophets of doom and gloom" are those who "predict that we will be destroyed by inflation . . ." And who is loudest in making that very warning? It is Arthur Burns, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He could be one of the "negativists," the "doomsayers" that Mr. Ford went to Cleveland, Ohio, to tell both Christian and Jew to be careful of.

Thus: "These negativists would write a script to prove their point, to bring about the very disasters they warn against and to hasten the end of the American society through chaos politics. I recently noted, for instance, an outcry against the police in Los Angeles because the police dared to shoot back at a murderous group of self-proclaimed revolutionaries. The outlaws were killed. There were charges of police brutality and an effort to portray the outlaws as persons of high moral standing Somewhere in their emotionalism, the doomsayers arrived at a distorted conclusion that the outlaws were the innocent victims and the police and society were the offenders."

When the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board reminds us that inflation has destroyed more government than hunger, he is not trying to help Patty Hearst rob a bank. Jerry Ford doesn't think so either. Neither does his audience, so that this jejune nonsense about prophets of doom fails even as rehtoric.

It is the language of a politician who has nothing to say and therefore thinks he can say anything. Such meaning as it does have is attitudinal. Don't knock when you can be a positive booster.

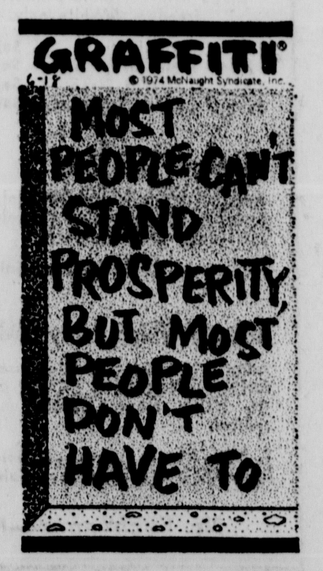

Committed positive thinking can be applied to anything. George L. Hart, Jr., the chief judge of the District of Columbia, can do it. A man comes into his country and confesses he lied under oath to a committee of the United States Senate, and Judge Hart tells him that this is "not the type of violation that reflects a mind bent on deception." Richard Kleindienst, the first Attorney Gentral to so disgrace his office, is then let free by the judge, who declares with a daffy serenity that his only real crime was possessing "a heart that is too loyal and considerate of the feelings of others."

A postive thinker must be he who accepts inflation and perjury while learning how not to listen to the "prophets all who try to serve it." What else can Ford mean when he utters words like, "The morality of politicians — and the government itself — reflects the morality of the cross-section of the people who go to the polls. I submit it is immoral to condemn crime by individuals but to condemn crime by revolutionaries."

Gibberish. We're not supposed to take the words one-by-one, but pick up attitudes. We steal, you steal, and whoever makes too much of it condones murders committed by the pubescent cobras of Symbionese Liberation, so many of whom precisely the kind of homes and home-life Jerry Ford extols and represents. Yes, we encourage these murdering, Marxist moppets because we wonder why hundreds of police discharged thousands of bullets in that black Los Angeles neighborhood without evacuating the innocent to safety. We favor inflation because we want to know why no more serious an effort was made to take the guilty alive.

Agnew without alliteration, that is Ford tripping over the stumps of dead ideas, giddy with a gaseous sort of attitudinal meanness, which his friends here in Washington apologize for by saying he is dumb but decent. The difference between malice and mental retardation in Mr. Ford's case is 50 points on an IQ test, the results of which are locked up in the White House safe with Ehrlichman's notes and the truth about Kissinger.

Ford's admirers must come up soon with proof that he is mentally handicapped or we shall be forced to conclude the Vice President knows what he's doing.

DEFACED MASTERPIECE — The Dean of Kings College, Cambridge, gives press conference late last week after it was discovered that vandals had defaced one of the worlds most valuable paintings, "The Adoration of the Magi" by Reubens. Worth one million pounds sterling (2.4 million dollars) had IRA scratched across it by a blunt instrument. Art experts say the painting can be restored. (UPI)

Contract Warning in Onteora

By CARL GRAHAM

BOICEVILLE

Nearly 200 persons jammed into the high school cafeteria Monday night heard the president of the Onteora Teachers Association call on the Board of Education for an early settlement of current contract negotations with the district's teachers.

An estimated two-thirds of the district's teachers present as a show of support applauded when Bernard Lapo, OTA president, said "District negotiators have suggested OTA doesn't represent the teachers. As we have shown by our presence here, we continue to support those we elected. You only delude yourselves if you think otherwise."

Lapo said that positions had hardened and there was no agreement in sight in current negotiations for a two-year contract beginning July 1. Referring to 1972 settlement of the current two-year contract under which teachers are now operating, Lapo said: "What happened last time did not happen by design but was the natural consequence of the humiliation we suffered when the district imposed a settlement on us. In the light of that experience, no one who has the best interests of education at heart should not believe that Onteora could not suffer again if the school year starts with no teacher contract."

A woman in the audience said she had never seen a district where a budget was adopted before negotiatinons with teachers were concluded. "I don't believe it," she said.

W. Jack Kahn, the board president who leaves the board June 30, said he agreed with her.

Herbert Howard, assistant superintendent of schools, said administrators had had difficulty in arranging sessions with the OTA negotiators.

Before the meeting had ended, the Association had mimeographed and distributed a reply to Howard's statement, saying that from the time contract talks began Feb. 26 through April 19, when the district declared an impasse, only one week had gone by without a negotiating session, that one wiped out by a snowstorm.

Peter Rakov said he was unable to make up his mind when the board took up the appointment of Mrs. Patricia Ketchum as an elementary teacher at Bennett School. He said he had heard good reports on her work as a substitute in the district but said he had not heard of her doing graduate work and noted she had not been active for 15 years.

"Dr. (Frank) Marlow is asking us to accept a teacher who does not have qualifications I would like her to have," Rakov said.

A man in the audience called Rakov's statement "pretty crude." Lapo said that credentials were important, but only one guide to a teacher. "I haven't heard anyone criticize her yet," he said.

Marlow said a good teacher "is made better by recent experience and graduate training. I recommended her to the board but with reservations on these two points." He then withdraw his recommendation.

After a 10-minute recess to discuss the matter privately, the board reconvened and heard Marlow again recommend Mrs. Ketchum be hired provided she undertake a graduate program. The board hired her.

Peter Averill, Richard Breyer, Dinah Carlson, Sydney Cresap, Judy Cross, Garby Ebbs, Chris Gillmor, Bill Olsen, Valerie Pustarfi, Nancy Thatcher, Sarah Wenk and Beth Zimet of Ralph Wesselmann's Oral Interpretation Class scored with humorous recitations of several fables by James Thurber.

The board approved a two year contract with the Onteora Non-Teaching Supervisors Association calling for a 10-cents an hour raise, the new contract effective July 1.

Saugerties Study Group Appointed

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Board of Education Monday night appointed a committee to study classroom needs in the district.

Robert Francello, board president, named Philip Meade, chairman of the Operations Committee. Mrs. Betty Morrison, director of curriculum, and Daniel Lee, superintendent of schools, to serve with him on the committee, which will investigate the possibility of additions to or renovations of existing facilities. Teacher representatives will be added to the committee later.

The board also allocated $3,000 for an architect's survey of the heating and electrical needs for all of the district's buildings, and tabled until its next meeting a study of appraisal of school buildings in Malden, Glasco, and at the Hill Street administration center. The Malden and Glasco buildings have been vacant since the district was centralized and several persons have called on the district to make some disposal of them so the properties can be put back on the tax rolls.

The board approved establishment of learning disabilities centers at the Junior high school and at Grant Morse Elementary School and a computer program. The school psychologist will write up programs for the learning disabilities center programs for summer employment.

The board created the position of plant superintendent and will write up specifications for the position and post the opening at all schools. The district's maintenance of schools is now handled by a plant superintendent. The board also created the position of director of administrative services. Job specifications for both positions will be announced later.

At the request of Lee the board authorized funds to pay teachers for two-hour review classes for each course for students taking delayed Regents examinations in August. The reviews will be to help students who normally would have taken examinations during the current week but had the tests put back when a statewide scandal involving sale of Regents examination answers was disclosed.

In other action the board authorized town use of school bleachers for town summer recreation programs; approved a five-day trip to Florida for the high school band, which will perform at Disney World Nov. 14; accepted bids of $3,228.50 from George Ostoyic for electrical wiring and $1,495 from Statewide Carpeting for new carpeting, both at Cahill School; and set special board meetings for Sunday, June 23, to approve high school graduates. Thursday, June 27, to pay year-end bills, and Saturday, July 13 to reorganize.

Zoning Change Is Recommended

WOODSTOCK

Amendment of the existing Town of Woodstock zoning map to encourage development near existing hamlets and discourage development on steep slopes and in areas of flood or landslide hazard is listed among the major recommendations by the Woodstock Planning Project, a study of five University of Pennsylvania students which has been underway since January.

The group presented a summary of their recommendations and analysis of current town issues at a public meeting held recently in the Woodstock Town Hall. The Woodstock Planning Project final report is expected in about a month, according to a spokesman for the group.

In its analysis of current town issues, the group said the problem of water pollution in the hamlet of Woodstock "requires prompt remedial action." The group recommended, however, a careful study of alternates to a sewage system currently being considered in the township.

The elimination of parking within 250 feet of the Route 212 and Rock City Road intersection is also suggested in an effort to alleviate "serious traffic problems."

Concerning its recommendation on amendment of the town's zoning map, the group said, "This policy will help preserve the existing rural landscape and character of the Town." The suggestion is meant to channel development into areas most suitable for building, the group explained.

The banning of new construction within 50 feet of all major streams is also recommended.

In the summary of its findings, the group recommended the consideration of new parking lots adjacent to the center of Woodstock, and said there exists a "definite need for more low and moderate income housing in the Town."

The six month study, aimed at developing an effective land-use policy in the township, covered six main areas: an inventory of environmental information in the form of maps and reports; a survey of community opinion regarding land-use alternatives and related environmental issues; an analysis of current environmental and land-use problems; a system for evaluating the impacts of planning proposals; an evaluation of the Town's zoning and subdivision ordinances; and establishing a basis for a continuing program of environmental research and monitoring.

Participating in the project were graduate students Roy Crystal, Frank Lanzetta, Arthur Lerman, Robert Lewis and Marie Vacca.

Multi-Million Fire Destroys Cotton, Forces Evacuation

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A two-square-block pier loaded with $5 million in cotton caught fire Monday night, destroying the wharf, thousands of dollars in loading equipment and forcing the mass evacuation of ships out into Galveston Bay.

No one was injured.

The fire burned out of control today sending the red flames caused by burning cotton so far into the air they could be seen in LaMarque, 15 miles away. Several thousand gaping spectators watched and strained at the barricades erected by police.

The fire destroyed the 37th Street Pier and with it 10,000 bales of cotton worth $500 each, several thousand pounds of rice, two giant loading cranes and 30 forklifts.

The Coast Guard towed four ships from the pier to the safety of Galveston Bay. One of the ships had its decks buckled by the heat, but remained seaworthy.

The fire was confined to a two-block area, but firefighters said any sudden gust of wind could send it out of control and into the city battered by winds and rains of many hurricanes.

A student at a Galveston maritime academy said he saw the fire start and said it appeared a ship pulling away from the pier sent a flash from its stack which ignited the cotton.

The pier was destroyed in three minutes.

The first call arrived at the Galveston Fire Department at 10 p.m. Within minutes the fire had been classified as general alarm, meaning every available fire department should report to the blaze. More than 100 firefighters from Galveston and the nearby communities of Hitchcock, League City, Alta Lomax and LaMarque responded to the call.

CONVICTION STANDS — The Supreme Court has let stand the conviction of former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner Jr. for mail fraud, conspiracy, tax evasion and perjury. The court refused to consider pleas by Kerner's lawyers that it decide for the first time whether a sitting Appellate judge can be convicted for criminal offenses before impeachment by the House and conviction by the Senate. POUGHKEEPSIE

Rain forced postponment of Sunday's scheduled Flea Market at the Main Mall.

However, Sylvia Garson, chairman of the event, said it will take place, weather permitting, this Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The flea market and antique show attracted several thousand earlier in the year and several hundred were on hand this past Sunday, despite the inclement weather.

Topless Go-Go Dancer Sues Chief of Police

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A young topless go-go dancer has sued the Killeen police chief for $50,000, claiming officers took her to jail while she wore nothing but a frown and a yellow raincoat and forced her to pose for a dozen nude photographs.

Nancy Wilson, 22, said that was a violation of her civil rights.

The suit was filed Monday in U.S. District Court, alleging the photographs were made following Ms. Wilson's arrest June 12 on charges of violating the Killeen city ordinance against nude dancing.

Ms. Wilson said the police officers refused to let her put on her clothes before leaving the My-O-My Club. She said the officers demanded that she remove her coat following booking her in.

She said they threatened to hold her down and take the pictures when she balked at removing the raincoat.

Ms. Wilson's attorney, Terrell R. Smith, said the alleged police photograph taking sessions amounted to illegal search and seizure.

Two Escape Serious Injury

STONE RIDGE

Two Kerhonkson youths miraculously escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding ran off Route 209 south of Stone Ridge and overturned several times.

The driver of the car, John T. Phillips, 17, of P. O. Box 256, Kerhonkson, and a passenger, Matthew Sahler, 15, were both listed in satisfacotry condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Ellenville State Police said the car in which the pair was riding first ran off the right side of the road and travelled some 525 feet along the shoulder. The vehicle then crossed the road, went some 300 feet more through a ditch and slammed into an embankement before flipping over.

No tickets were issued at the scene of the 7:05 p.m. mishap.

In Kingston, meanwhile, the drivers of two cars which collided at the intersection of Washington and Linderman Avenues at about 4 p.m. were injured.

Police identified the drivers as Remez Zvi Ben Svi 24, of Scotch Plains, N.J., who was treated and released at Benedictine Hospial, and Ruth A. Wood, 39, of 262 Linderman Avenue, who was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. She was listed in fair condition today.

Police said both drivers said they were going through green lights. No summonses were issued.

City Pair Are Arrested

KINGSTON

Two Kingston men who were spotted allegedly carrying bundles of copper pipe along Greenkill Avenue shortly before 3 a.m. today by city patrolmen were arrested and charged with third degree possession of stolen property.

Arrested were Michael D. Bassett, 24, of 14 Ravine Street, and David A. Price, 23, of Rondout Gardens.

Detectives said subsequent investigation revealed that the pipe allegedly came from Canfield Supply Company, 25-29 Dederick Street.

A break-in there was discovered later in the morning, and 240 feet of copper pipe valued at $125 was reported missing. Detectives said the pipe taken in the burglary was allegedly that recovered in the arrests of Bassett and Price.

Entry to the Canfield Supply Company building had been gained by breaking a window, police said.

Bassett and Price were released in their own recognizance following booking and were scheduled to appear in city court today.

Newburgh Man Electrocuted

PINE BUSH, N.Y. (UPI) — John Snyder, 33, of Newburgh was electrocuted Monday while supervising unloading of building materials at a construction site near this Orange County community.

Authorities said the boom of a truck hit an overhead power line and Snyder tried to shut off the truck's motor. He was electrocuted when he touched the vehicle.

Local Death Record, Memoriams

Memoriam

In loving memory of Robert D. Marks who passed away three years ago today June 18, 1971.

The pain of losing someone so dear
Is a heartache that never gets easy to bear
He's remembered and loved as much today
As in the hour of his passing away.

Russian Diplomat Testifies

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Soviet diplomat testified for the government Monday at the U.S. District Court trial of two Jewish Defense League members accused of knocking him down and dousing him with beef blood.

The appearance on the witness stand of German M. Kosenkov is believed to be the first time a Soviet diplomat has testified in a U.S. Court against an American citizen. Kosenkov, second secretary to the Soviet Mission to the United Nations, spoke through an interpreter.

The 47-year-old witness identified Mitchell Rein, 17 of Manahatan, as one of the two youths who attacked him on March 17, 1973. Kosenkov was not able to identify the second defendant, Zelig Spirn, 19, of Queens.

Kosenkov's topcoat, bearing blood stains, was introduced as evidence by the government.

Rein and Spirn were arrested minutes after the alleged attack by two off-dtuy patrolmen. The teen-agers were later cited in a criminal information for "acts of juvenile delinquency" and assaulting a foreign officer and official guest of the United States.

Kosenkov had refused to press charges after the incident, but the soviet Mission protested the alleged assault in a letter to the U.S. mission and asked that action be taken.

Painter's Union Joins Blood Bank

KINGSTON — Painter's Local 255, the first trade union in Ulster County to do so, has enrolled as a group in the Ulster County Blood Bank.

Arthur C. Chipp, Blood Bank president, complimented John Moore, Local 255 president, and his group for the decision. "They have added their strength to the overall Blood Bank membership, which consists of many industries, and companies, large and small, plus banks, clubs, and other groups," Chipp said. These groups have been enrolling almost on a weekly basis since the Ulster County Blood Bank Group Plan was introduced last year."

The Blood Bank has had union participation since 1971, when the Kingston Teachers Federation Local 781 enrolled many of its members, Chipp pointed out.

With its enrollment, the Painters Local and dependents are entitled to immediate benefits including unlimited replacement of blood in any Ulster County Hospital for elective or emergency surgery and up to $400 per incident nationwide, made possible by the Ulster County Blood Bank's membership in the American Association of Blood Banks.

"With the excellent publicity we have received from news media," Chipp said, "most people know that anyone living or working in Ulster County is eligible for membership, regardless of age, health, or physical condition. We have newborn infants and one man over 92 years old as members and entitled to all benefits.

Garrow Takes Stand, Testifies He Killed Two Others

LAKE PLEASANT, N.Y. (UPI) — Robert F. Garrow of Syracuse, taking the stand as the first defense witness in his trial for the slaying of a young camper in the Adirondacks last summer, admitted Monday two killings of two other persons.

The 38-year-old bakery mechanic sat in a wheelchair, sobbing frequently, while he was questioned by one of his attorneys. He was expected to be cross-examined today by the prosecution.

The balding, powerfully built man testified that he fatally stabbed a girl he identified only as "Carol", and said he also strangled a Syracuse teen-ager. He said he picked up a hitchiker, later identified by his attorneys as 16 year-old Alicia Hauck, drove for a while in Syracuse, and then had intercourse near a cemetery. He said he then strangled the girl when she refused to have intercourse a second time.

He also admitted several sexual activities, including those with two young girls in the Onondaga County town of Geddes. He is under indictment there in that case.

At one point, when he was asked about an unnatural sex act in Syracuse, he said to his attorney, Francis Belge, "Nobody knows about this but me and the doctors. You're putting me in a spot."

"I know it," the lawyer said.

Hamilton County Court Judge George W. Marthen had advised Garrow he did not have to testify about the various episodes, but he did. "It doesn't really matter, I'm living on borrowed time," Garrow said.

Garrow is being tried for the stabbing death of Philip Dombiewski, 18, of Schenectady, last July 29 at a campsite near Speculator.

Garrow was wounded and captured after a massive 12 day manhunt in the Adirondacks.

After his capture, Garrow also was questioned about the stabbing death of Daniel Porter, 22, of Concord, Mass., whose body was found July 20, 1973, near Wevertown in Warren County and the disappearance of Porter's companion, Susan Petz, 21, of Skokie, Ill.

In his testimony, Garrow told of driving from Syracuse to see his father at his home in Essex County and stopping along a dirt road next to a brook near Wevertown because he did not feel well.

"There were people behind me," he said. "The guy came to the door (of Garrow's car). He had long hair. I must have said something. He got mad. We got into a big scuffle and went down over an embank ment. The guy got killed by a knife. I was told he was stabbed several times."

Garrow was then asked what he did with the girl who was with the young man.

He said he took her with him in his car and, when they arrived at Witherbee, she helped him unload the car.

He said he lived with the girl for two or three days in a tent and he identified her only by the name of Carol. He said he had intercourse with her "quite often and just about everything you could say. She didn't refuse."

One afternoon they got into an argument when he wanted her to take off her blouse, he said. They were in an area where there were mine shafts. Garrow said the girl did remove her blouse and he put down his rifle and knife to take off his shirt. He said she reached for the knife and he took it away from her, slashing his hand in the process.

"What did you do with the knife?" his attorney asked.

"I guess I stabbed her," Garrow answered.

"What did you do with the body?" the attorney asked.

"I pushed her down a mineshaft," he replied.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was lower today as brokers noted a carryover of Monday's broad decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down fractionally near the opening with twice as many issues declining as advancing on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers predict further concern over interest rates today. They say investors are still disappointed that banks have not yet lowered their prime rate from the prevailing 11½ per cent, as was hoped they would after initial weakness in rates two weeks ago.

However the brokers say Federal Reserve reluctance to provide money to the federal funds market Monday when the rate reached around 11⅞ per cent suggested a continued tight money policy by the Fed.

Excellent Rating for Village Section

ROSENDALE FLOOD CONTROL
(Freeman photo by Haines)

ROSENDALE — The village section of the Rosendale Flood Control Project is in "excellent condidtion", according to a report of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation.

In a letter to Trustee Barbara DeStefano, Russell Wege, senior hydraulic engineer, praised her for her "cooperation in restoring this project from a deteriorated condition to a well maintained project."

The project was inspected May 22 by DEC and Mayor Robert Sheehan and Mrs. DeStafano and was found to not only be in good condidtion but "a significant maintenance improvement in the village sector" was noted. The one major deficiency, according to Wege, is the bank erosian problem in the township sector of the project which the department has plans to correct.

It was reported that there was no levee sloughing or settlement, that grass maintenance on the levee was being carried out at the time of inspection and that the sod was in good condidtion.

There were no animal burrows in the levee and no movement in floodwall. There was limited and minor concrete cracking, breaking and spauling in the vicinity of James Street.

All sluice gates were freshly painted and greased, all vandalism had been repaired and it was noted that with regard to unauthorized excavation, a six inch sewer pipe cut into the levee at one point is still in litigation and has not been plugged.

Regarding the channel bank erosian, it was declared serious in the lower section of the channel where DEC plans to repair it with construction. Where it is minor the township plans to plant two rows of willows on two-foot centers for control.

The department will remove a large shoal and three large trees in the township sector of the project.

It was noted that the village has removed about 90 per cent of brush and growth in riprap and and that the township is continuing a brush control program.

It was recommended that the township insure the access road along the lower sector of the project is usuable for vehicular traffic. Unauthorized vehicular traffic on the levee is being controlled by the village.

Septic tank and leach fields were declared satisfactory under existing conditions.

It was recommended further that the village remove a sign blocking the access ramp near Route 32, brush debris placed on the easement behind the Sammon Property and a wooden walkway and tree trunk behind the old Post Office.

Rhinebeck 'Low Density' Plan

RHINEBECK — Proposed amendments to the Rhinebeck Town Zoning Law would restore the town plan to its original scope of low density development.

The proposals, under study and investigation by the Planning Board for some time, would in effect require larger parcels of land for building in about 75 per cent of the town land.

Arthur Carl, chairman of the Planning Board, claimed that this proposal reaffirmed the original intent of the town's master plan.

When hearings were being conducted more than three years ago on te town's first zoning law, much pressure was felt from a segment of the population to allow for greater density than was recommended.

These wishes were ultimately bowed to, with the result that lands originally scheduled for three and five acre minimum for residence were cut in half to 1½ and 2½ acre minimums. The plan would change that back.

Public hearings will be necessary to implement any zoning law amendments. Many persons from the more settled portions of the town, such as Rhinecliff, were adamantly opposed to the high acreage requirments in original zoning hearings, claiming they were discriminatory to the poorer working class person who could not afford such large acreage.

Supervisor William Allen was reported as saying recently that "we feel the original comprehensive plan was in keeping with Rhinebeck's character . . . We want to try to encourage more growth clustered around the village and believe that the zoning amendments will help bring this about."

Some other minor zoning law changes are also being considered.

WOMEN ACROBATS THRILL THE CROWD

Thrills Under the Big Top

KINGSTON

Laughter and gasps of wonder were mixed in equal proportions as the clowns and acrobats of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus frolicked and performed for the crowds under the big top at Dietz Stadium on Monday.

Cracking his whip, the traditional tamer of ferocious beasts, Dave Hoover, commanded several lions and tigers through a series of tricks as if they were purring pussycats . . . but everyone knew better.

Of course one of the biggest attractions was a herd of performing elephants — and they were certainly big.

Children in the crowd . . . and adults, too . . . giggled and guffawed at the antics of the clowns, as acts were performed in the now-familiar three rings.

Performances Monday were presented at 4 and 8 p.m., with proceeds going to various Kiwanis programs in the area.

Rental Safety Adopted in Ellenville

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILE

After months of discussion, three public hearings, and two and a half hours of wrangling and vote taking Monday night, the Ellenville Village Board adopted provisions for a Certificate of Rental Safety (CRS).

Falling under the new CRS measure are one and two-unit rental dwellings in the village. The measure is an amendment to the new housing codes in the recodification of village ordinances approved by the board two months ago, after about three years of labor.

Dwellings with three or more rental units are already covered under the Multiple Residence Law.

Considered by the trustees, and the subject of the public hearing Monday night, was an elaborate 11-section ordinance which covered both the low-unit rental dwellings and commercial rentals.

However, Village Manager Modris Pukulis pointed out early in the hearing that he had discovered on reading the new codes that the village had a section, Section 13, which dealt for about 14 pages with housing.

What was adopted was an amendment to the codes which calls for "rental housing units" to have an inspection, and be certificated yearly by the building inspector if he is satisfied that all the codes are met. Commercial building rentals were not included.

The CRS had been called for by local residents since the fire late last winter which took the lives of two children. The fire happened in a rented single-family dwelling that local residents say had code violations in it.

The penalities for CRS violations will be the same as those for the rest of the recently-adopted codes — $250 and/or 15 days in jail.

The CRS measure did not pass easily. Amendments to the original proposal offered by Trustee Sol Sandler failed by a two to three vote. The vote on the 11-section ordinance went against it one to four.

The final amendment, unanimously passed by the board was offered by Trustee David Kramer, after an impromptu hiatus in the deliberations, when Mayor Robert Dowling left the chair for a drink of water and the meeting temporarily dissolved.

John "Jackie" Stone, an activist in Ellenville's partially-decayed Cross Canal section, said, "I can't see why things have to be argued, and argued in Ellenville."

"This is ridiculous," he said.

Local landlords had called for some protection against tenant damage to rental units in whatever measure was passed. Kramer said if the landlords needed more protection against tenant damage they should just raise their security deposits.

The final drafting of the CRS code amendment will be done by Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg.

The board, in other action, voted to send a letter to WELV owner Al Dresner notifying him that a contract the village had signed with him to allow him to put a radio antenna in the "antenna farm" at Sam's Point is no good. Nirenberg said the village had "no right" to sign the lease, which it did about a year and a half ago.

"I advise the board to cut short any damages that may accure," said Nirenberg. Dresner has not erected the antenna, reportedly because of differences with the operators of Ice Caves Mountaun, which leases the Sam's Point area from the village.

Pukulis is to send a letter to the owners of 15 properties in the village telling them they have until Sept. 1 to hook onto the village sewer system. Dowling said the properties had been paying sewer rents.

Pukulis said apparently the property owners had never been pressured to hook up to the sewers.

A paper drive will be held Saturday, June 29, beginning at 9:30 a.m. There will be curbside pickup of papers and magazines, and residents are asked to bundle papers or put them in strong shopping bags for proper handling.

Vows Exchanged at West Point Chapel

MRS. CHRISTOPHER JOHN WILCOX
(Debra Ann Edwards)

Debra Ann Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Edwards of 54 Hillcrest Avenue, Kingston, was married to 2nd Lt. Christopher John Wilcox of West Point Sunday, June 9.

The Rev. Father McCormick celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony at Holy Trinity Chapel, West Point. Traditional wedding selections were provided.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ruth Smith of Kings Ferry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a traditional white gown of Marricane silk, styled with a fitted wasitline and a chapel train. Re-embroidered Venise lace encircled the waistline and outlined the V-neckline and long, tapered sleeves. Her mantilla and blusher were bordered with matching lace and secured to a pillbox headpiece. She carried a cascade of baby white roses and baby's breath.

Cincy Jean Edwards, sister of the bride, Kingston, was maid of honor in a blue crepe halter dress with jacket, accented with ruffles and lace. She wore a blue picture hat and carried a basket of blue and white daisies with baby's breath.

Attendants were Joan Kauffman, Kingston; Peggy Bastable, Flushing; Elaine Macedonia, Oster Bay; Carol Vopelak, Hicksville; Kathy Randall, Mt. Vernon. Their gowns were identical in styling to the maid of honor's except in maize, coral, green, pink and lilac. They wore picture hats to match and carried white baskets of daisies and baby's breath.

Second Lt. Raymond Peterson of West Point served as best man. Ushers were 2nd Lt. Oscar Ortiz, 2nd Lt. Dwight Webster, 2nd Lt. Douglas Cathcart, 2nd Lt. Mitch Dassett, 2nd Lt. Hy Rothstein, all of West Point.

A reception was given at the Officer's Club, West Point.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of John A. Coleman High School, attended the College of Mt. St. Vincent in Riverdale, and is employed at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh. Her husband, a 1970 alumnus of Moravia Central High School, received his Bachelor of Science degree this year from U.S. Military Academy of West Point.

After a wedding tour of the southern states, the couple will reside at Fort Benning, Ga., where the bridegroom will attend jump school.

Model Health Program Explained to School Nurse-Teachers

Ulster County School Nurse-Teachers held a dinner meeting earlier this month at Kurta's Restaurant. Rosemary Barnes, school nurse-teacher at Lake Katrine Elementary School, explained the model health program. Totally child-centered, the program helps each child gain an understanding of and appreciation for his body as well as helping him learn and practice ways of living by which he may prevent disease and maintain general good health.

The focus in the fifth grade is on the respiratory system; sixth grade, circulatory system; seventh grade, nervous system. A unit on digestion is now being assembled for the fourth grade.

Lake Katrine is the pilot school in this area. The program has been expanded through in-service schedules in the Kingston Consolidated Schools and, hopefully, will be offered through workshops throughout the various school districts in the county.

Reports on the annual New York State School Nurse Teachers Association meeting at the Hotel Americana in New York were also submitted at this meeting.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
© 1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: Every time I give a party, at least one guest arrives fifteen or more minutes early with the explanation that she came early "to help." Since I rarely have hired help, I am busy with preparations until the last minute. I usually thank her and say "No, please sit in the living room and I'll just finish a few last minute things." Usually she lights a cigarette and takes a seat in the kitchen where I am working, or follows me around, chatting all the while. It really rattles me because I work better alone.

It's not a big problem but I don't know how to handle it. Have you a solution?

Mrs. L. Darcy

Dear Mrs. Darcy: The best solution I know of is to invite this particular guest for a time fifteen minutes or half an hour later than the others. Even if she catches on to your trick it should give her the idea that her early arrival is not appreciated. Incidentally, this same scheme can be applied in reverse to those guests who habitually arrive late.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post: Our three children are having a celebration for our fiftieth wedding anniversary at a supper club. The bridesmaid and flower girl are still living, also one usher. I would like to know who should sit at the celebrants' table — the living attendants or the children and grandchildren?

There will be one head table, and the rest of the tables will be round, seating six. Should the children and their children sit at one table, or should they be scattered among the guests?

Mrs. Karl

Dear Mrs. Karl: The three living members of your bridal party should certainly be seated with you on your fiftieth wedding anniversary, but a total of five would be too few for the "head" table. Therefore, I would suggest that the attendants and your sons and daughters, and their wives and husbands, sit with you. The grandchildren can either be seated at one table, if they are contemporaries and good friends, or they could be scattered about to sit with their other relatives or friends.

• • •

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer will be published in this column. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

New Members Accepted Into HIEFSS

Two members of the Dietary staff of St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie have received certificates as Registered Food Service Supervisors, entitling them to membership in the Hospital, Institution, and Educational Food Service Society (HIEFSS), following the completion of a one-year course sposored by the Dutchess County BOCES Adult Program with the cooperation of the New York State Department of Health and the New York State Dietetic Association.

Mrs. Lillian B. Tortorella, dining room manager, and Miss JoAnne Weaver, senior aide, attended two semesters conducted by Mrs. Bonita Alexander, registered dietitian.

The courses were planned for food service supervisors and personnel, as well as cook managers presently employed in hospitals, nursing homes, homes for the aged, and children's institutions. The first semester dealt with food service organization, nutrition and modified diets, work simplification techniques and food service equipment, recipes and standarization, and food preparation. The second semester covered menu planning, sanitation, purchasing, storage, management skills, human relations, creativity in supervision and personnel training.

During and immediately following the institutional aspect of the program, students completed assigned projects to put their knowledge into practice. Projects were conducted under the guidance of registered American Dietetic Association dietitians who served as preceptors.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

DON'T LET YOUR LAWN MOW YOU DOWN!

Dear Heloise:

My father, who is 82 years young, came up with this terrific idea.

As he still mows his own grass, he could use an extra pair of hands when filling the bag with grass clippings.

He removed the bottom from an old 20-gallon metal garbage can and turned it upside down. He puts the plastic bag inside with edges overlapping. It may need to be tied around the edge of the can to keep it from slipping.

When the bag is filled with the grass clippings, you tie it and just lift the can off the bag. It works great.

Joe

Dear Folks:

I just went out to a friends' home for the week end and did I ever get the latest shock of my life . . .

Carolyn Schnert, who is the greatest cook, fried frozen hamburger patties (because we wanted them in a hurry) and do you know how she did it?

She took a heavy skillet and put the frozen patties in, then poured some water out of her tea kettle into the skillet full of patties before they ever got hot.

Quickly she put on the heavy lid. Then cooked away.

I started asking questions, and, honeypots, does she have some answers.

Why fry them dry? Steam them and they will be tender.

And tender they were. No grease spatters. Still juicy. No crust. And, best of all, they don't shrink.

I'm telling you that if you could meet this sweet gal, you would dearly love her. Don't you all love her for telling me so I could pass along her secret? She didn't consider it a secret at all. Thought "everybody" knew it . . .

Just like most of us . . . we think everyone knows our short cuts, but most of the handed-down habits are forgotten these days.

Dear Heloise:

I've got some friends with four "wild younguns," as they call 'em, and all are boys with tricycles.

After one had an accident, Daddy got smart and laid all their bicycles on newspaper ans sprayed the wheels (spokes and all, plus the sides of the tires) with red flourescent paint! It can be bought at any store that sells paint.

He says, "To heck with the thought that I smeared up their bikes, I might be saving their lives. You just ought to see how red and flashy those spokes are when they're pumpin . . ."

Dear Heloise:

I read the hint about running pea soup through the blender instead of a sieve. I have a quicker and less messy way.

I blend dry peas before I ever cook them. This makes a powder and you slowly add your liquid, beating or using a wisk, and cook as usual.

Not only does this go quicker, but your soup cooks in about half the time. (Saves fuel that way too.)

Poetry Is Fine . . . But It's Not Edible

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I dropped out of high school to be married. I am now 30, divorced, and have three children. We are totally dependent on welfare.

If I went to work I could earn $1.90 an hour as a motel maid but here is my dilemma: I attend (but am not enrolled in) the poetry workshops of two colleges in my city. My teachers say I am very talented, and they urge me to stay with writing poetry. I have been published in some of the best literary magazines in the nation, and have had some very encouraging letters from editors, although they haven't paid me anything. My ambition is to become a major poet.

Now I must make a choice between my children's physical needs and what my family calls my "selfish ambition."

I welcome your advice.

POOR, SCORNED AND TORN

DEAR P., S AND T.: Since you are able to work I think you should get off welfare. Thus far your poetry has netted you only non-edible letters of encouragement. I advise you to get a paying job, and write poetry in your spare time.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in the strange case of the woman who went to confession and was upset by the priest who confessed his own troubles to ser. Even stranger was your advice that the priest should see a doctor!

So here's the situation: If a woman confesses to a priest, she's religious; but if a priest confesses to a woman, he's sick.

My God, Abby, if that's the best you can do, you should quit. Why didn't you simply advise the poor fellow to go to another priest and confess?

INFIDELO

DEAR INF.: The priest didn't merely "confess" to a woman — he broke down and wept — and to a parishioner who had come to HIM to confess yet. (This is healthy?)

True, another priest might have relieved the first priest's guilt by hearing his confession, but only a doctor can diagnose and treat one for an emotional disturbance, which appears to be the case here.

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor who will be going on leave soon. I expect to be met at the airport by my parents and my girl friend. My problem is I don't know whose arms I should go to first. It will be a year and six months since I have been home.

You always say to put your mate above all others because your mate will be your lifelong companion. Well, I am not married yet but I think my girl friend will expect me to go to her first, and my mother will expect me to go to her first.

I love them both very much and wouldn't want to hurt either one, so whose arms do you recommend?

SAILOR

DEAR SAILOR: Since you aren't married yet, I'd suggest you greet your mother first. But once you take a mate, mate, she comes first!

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

IT'S FURNTIRUE MOVING TIME

As you begin "sprucing-up" your home for the summer and start pushing furniture into the center of the room so you can attack those corners, STOP! Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist suggests that before you move things back in the same old places, ask yourself these questions:

— Are all the large pieces of furniture grouped together so my room seems heavy on one side?

— Are chairs arranged in conversation groups or are they scattered around the room?

— Can I arrange my room so a table and lamp service two or more seats?

— Are conversations groupings away from lines of traffic?

— How many small throw rugs do I have in one room? (Too many destroy unity).

— Do I have some open spots in my room? (Too much furniture makes a room look cluttered)

— Are large pieces of parallel to the walls, not diagonal? (Diagonal pieces in corners waste space).

— Are pictures at eye level? (The bottom of a 20 inch by 30 inch frame should be about four feet from the floor).

— Can I make housekeeping easier by putting away things which are only ornamental?

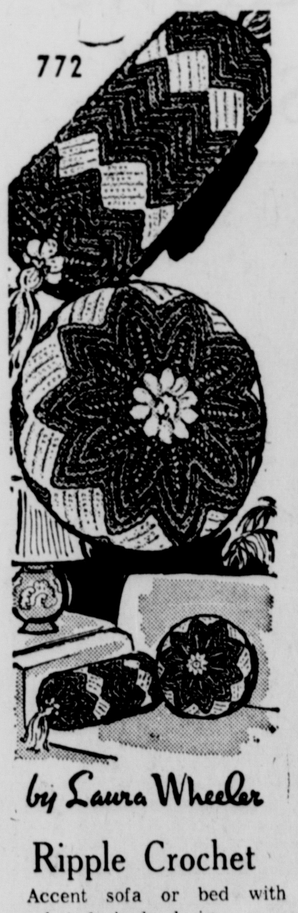

— Are pictures in propostion to the size of the furniture? (Perhaps you could group several small pictures).

— Are all passage areas open?

If possible, make this a "family affair." Youngsters respond to a new look in their home and often have good suggestions on arrangements that are more comfortable, make the room look more inviting or easier to care for.

Caring for a room with a new look is more enjoyable. A change in furniture placement is good for the carpet and the furniture too. It causes new traffic patterns, takes certain pieces of furniture away from the strong light for awhile and sometimes encourages more use of the room because it is more comfortable or convenient.

Frazier Came Out Smokin'

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier came out smokin' Monday night, blasted his way back into the heavyweight title picture and cast a giant shadow over Jerry Quarry's dream of ever wearing that coveted crown.

"I wanted the public to see that I'm going back to being the old Smokin' Joe," said Frazier, moments after stopping Quarry at 1:37 of the fifth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

"All the things they said I couldn't do, I did tonight," Frazier said. "I really felt good—just like my old self."

It was the old Smokin' Joe, the aggressive battler with the devastating left hook, but with some new wrinkles—an effective right hand, some pesky jabs, a smothering defense. And he proved that the new Quarry was little more dangerous than the old one, whom Frazier beat in seven rounds five years ago.

A cut above the left eye, opened by Frazier early in the fifth round, led referee Joe Louis—the former king of the heavyweights—to stop the fight. But even without the cut, there was little doubt the fight belonged to Frazier.

"Everything I worked so hard for just didn't work," said a disconsolate Quarry, who needed 15 stitches to close the cut above his left eye and three stitches to bind a smaller wound above his right eye. "I just didn't have any strength, nothing.

"I had a very long elusive dream," Quarry said of his quest for the heavyweight title. "I'm not sure I can make it now."

Quarry had six straight knockouts since ending a brief retirement 18 months ago. But Frazier was another matter, thanks largely to the ex-champ's manager, Eddie Futch, who designed the varied attack Frazier used so effectively.

"I've got to give all the credit to Eddie," said Frazier, who weighed 212 pounds to 197½ for Quarry. "He brought what was in me out again."

"We worked on Joe's right hand, because I thought we would catch Jerry off-guard," said Futch, explaining the presence of the unexpectedly effective right in the Frazier arsenal. "We knew Jerry would be looking for a left-hook attack."

The victory provided for Frazier a decisive answer to critics who claimed that his hard-fought victory in the first Muhammad Ali fight had taken too much out of him. Those critics pointed to his second-round knockout at the hands of George Foreman in Jamaica Jan. 22, 1973, and his loss to Ali one year later, as evidence of his deterioration.

But against Quarry, Frazier showed he still had that powerful left hook, plus something extra.

"I keep telling people that I can box," said Frazier. "They said no—but I showed them tonight that I can. They said I can't hit with my right hand—I showed them differently."

Frazier was in command from the start, witnessed by a Garden crowd of 14,611, producing a gate of $517,006.03.

The fight was the first half of a national closed circuit television doubleheader. In the second bout, Bob Foster successfully defended his light heavyweight title with a draw against Jorge Ahumada in Albuquerque, N.M.

Frazier clearly won the first two rounds despite being hit by a hard—but accidental—low blow with 30 seconds to go in the opening round. Frazier grimaced in pain and walked to a corner, but Quarry quickly apologized and Louis motioned for the bout to continue.

The first really decisive punches of the fight came about 2½ minutes into the third round, when Frazier connected with a right to the body and followed with a left hook to the head that turned Quarry sideways.

Frazier pounded away in the fourth, flooring Quarry with a mighty left hook to the stomach at the closing bell. Quarry took a count of five before rising.

The fifth round was all Frazier. He left Quarry helpless. After opening the cut over Quarry's left eye, Frazier motioned to Louis to stop the fight, but the referee let the boxers continue for another 30 seconds before calling a halt.

"Joe (Louis) should have stopped it sooner; if not Joe, then the people in Jerry's corner," said Frazier. "I could see how badly he was cut."

Louis defended his actions: "The cut wasn't as big as Joe thought it was. In another half-minute it was bigger, and that's why I stopped it."

Louis and judge Jack Gordon scored each of the first four rounds for Frazier, while judge Artie Aidala had it 3-0-1. The Associated Press gave all four rounds to Frazier.

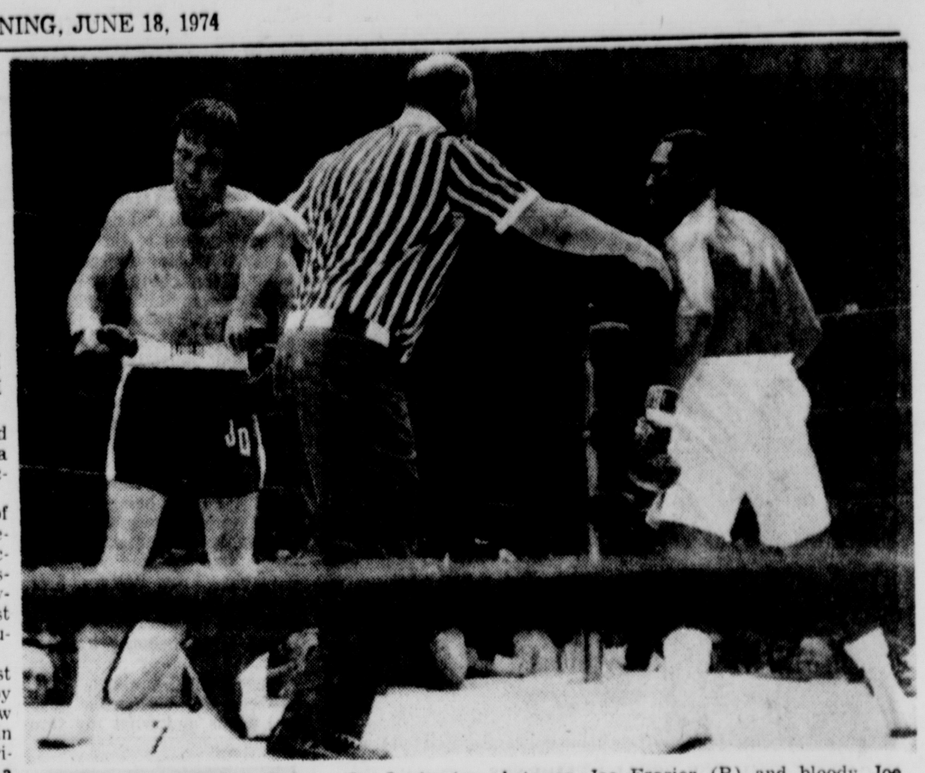

Today, the two 30-year-old heavyweights find themselves headed in opposite directions.

Quarry, thwarted in his comeback effort, is once again the bridesmaid, stopped short of his goal.

He evaded saying whether he will retire after the fight, although his wife Charlie indicated he would "be coming back."

Frazier looks ahead to a brighter picture—and the crown now worn by George Foreman, who defends it against Ali in September in Zaire.

Said Frazier, looking to a possible bout with the winner: "I want another shot at that title—as soon as possible."

THAT'S ALL, BOYS — Referee Joe Louis steps between Joe Frazier (R) and bloody Joe Quarry in fifth round to stop the fight Monday night at Madison Square Garden. The former champion, Frazier, never gave Quarry a chance in their scheduled 12-rounder. (UPI)

Jorge Claims Title

But the Judges Called It Draw

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Left-hooking Jorge Ahumada, a solid little boxing bull from Argentina, remains convinced he should be the light heavyweight champion today.

"I am the champ and I'll come back to Albuquerque again to prove it," declared a bloody and bruised challenger, who came out with only a draw in 15 rounds against home town hero Bob Foster.

So Foster retained the title, his 14th successful defense of the 175-pound crown. It was the first draw in his professional career, dating back to 1961.

Referee Jimmy Cleary ruled for Ahumada 145-142 under the 10-point must system under which the winner of a round collects 10 points and the loser nine or less.

Judge Tim Keleher saw it 148-143 for Foster and judge Stan Gallup scored 144-144. All three officials are from Albuquerque. The Associated Press scored it 145-144 for Foster.

Ahumada, 173½ and 5-foot-10, lacked 5½ inches in height and five inches in reach against his 35-year-old foe, who weighed in at 174.

So Ahumada followed a strategy of bulling in and swinging left hooks that often found their mark to the head or body. Foster's best was his jab and trainer Billy Edwards kept up an incessant shout of, "Jab champ, jab, jab, jab," and "Watch out for the hook."

In the 10th round Ahumada hit Foster with a low left, doubling the champ over. The referee gave him a minute to recover and took away a point. He then told judge Keleher what he had done but said it would be the judges' discretion whether they followed suit.

Keleher did but the other judge didn't.

"I thought it was an accidental low blow and it had nothing to do with my scoring," said Gallup, the third judge.

In many boxing jurisdictions, if a referee feels a low blow was intentional he inflicts a point penalty and instructs the judges to do the same.

A draw decision in a championship fight leaves the title with the champion.

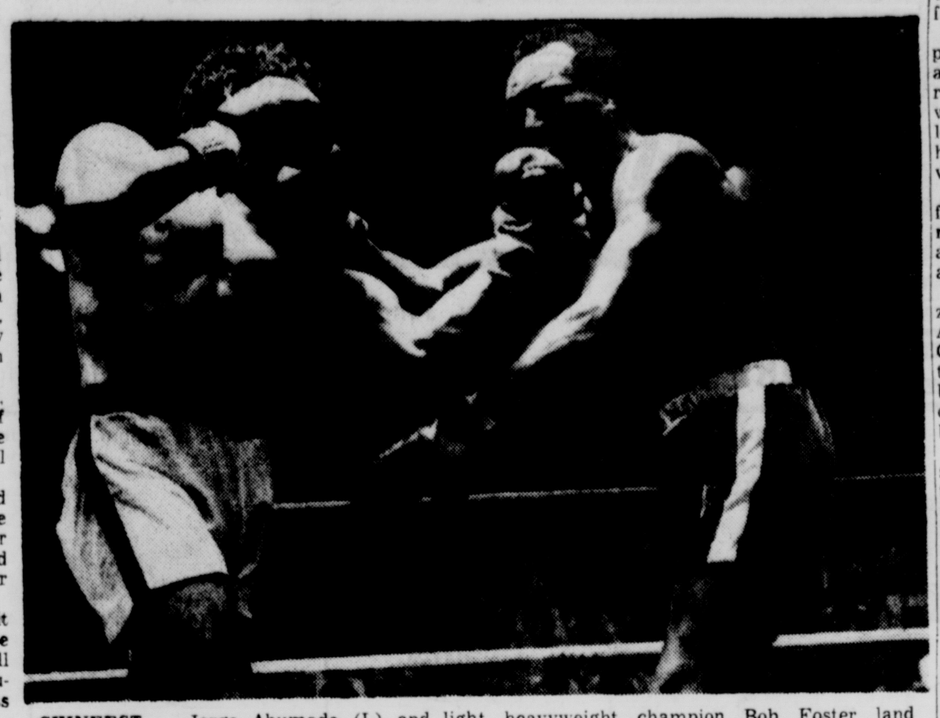

The fight drew an announced crowd of 11,093 to the University of New Mexico Arnea. It was the second part of a nationally televised closed circuit show that started with Joe Frazier's fifth round knockout of Jerry Quarry in New York.

While Ahumada, 28, clamored for a rematch, Foster's manager, Lou Viscusi, said nothing was settled yet but both John Conteh of Great Britain and Victor Galindez of Argentina were at the fight.

Either could get the next shot at Foster and Conteh appears to have the best chance.

Foster bloodied Ahumada's nose in the second round; the challenger also had bruises both above and below his left eye. Foster also had a couple of facial bruises.

Foster hit Ahumada below the belt in the 11th round and Ahumada complained that Foster was thumbing him in the left eye repeatedly and using his reach to push him away.

CHINFEST — Jorge Ahumada (L) and light heavyweight champion Bob Foster land solid punches to the chin of each other in their title bout Monday night in Albuquerque. The fight ended in a draw. (UPI)

Aaron Leading All-Star Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Hank Aaron, Atlanta's home run champ, leads the voting for the 1974 National League All-Star team with the ballots of about one million baseball fans counted.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday Aaron had 484,972 votes in the first two weeks of balloting for the July 23 game in Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati and Los Angeles players became the top NL contenders for all seven other positions in the voting, which ends July 7.

Cincinnati's Johnny Bench topped catchers with 429,447 votes and ranked second to Aaron in the over-all NL totals.

Outfielders Pete Rose of Cinnnati was second with 288,854 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles third with 224,490. Neither Rose nor Wynn were among last week's top vote-getters.

Minimal Possibility Of Basketball Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the National Basketball Association finally about to merge with the rival American Basketball Association? "There is a minimal possibility that such a procedure will take place before the week is over," said NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy Monday, adding, "I don't think it is a strong possibility."

Kennedy, attending the opening of the week-long NBA meetings, was trying to squelch a flurry of rumors about a possible merger, which he said may have been started by the ABA.

The NBA was not expected to discuss the merger situation formally until Wednesday or Thursday. The ABA was scheduled to meet Thursday and Friday in Louisville.

Kennedy said Herman Sarkowsky, owner of the Portland Trail Blazers, had been meeting with ABA officials periodically over the past few months. Sarkowsky heads the NBA's Legislative Committee—the group in charge of the league's merger negotiations.

Under a possible merger deal, six ABA teams—New York, Kentucky, Indiana, San Antonio, Denver and Carolina, which would shift to Cincinnati—would pay an indemnity to join the NBA.

ABA teams in Memphis, San Diego, Utah and financially troubled Virginia, already taken over by the league, would be dropped before the merger.

A tentative plan for the 1974-75 season would have the former ABA teams competing among themselves under the NBA flag as a separate division—likely with their own playoffs, too. The NBA's regular season schedule already has been drawn up.

Fourteen of the 18 NBA owners would be have to approve a merger.

Kennedy said no "accommodation" is possible without congressional legislation or approval of a federal judge because of current antitrust laws.

The NBA and the NBA Players Association reportedly had agreed on a modification of a key merger stumbling block—the reserve system that binds athletes to particular teams.

Brazil Faces Tough Match

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Defending champion Brazil faced the moment of truth in its 1974 World Cup campaign today with a crucial match against high-riding Scotland.

Brazil's coach Mario Zagallo already has said he would be satisfied with a draw. But Brazil's fevered millions of soccer fanatics will accept nothing less than an outright victory.

Defeat will mean disaster—and an early return home for the three-time world champions. Scotland leads the Group U standings of the 16-nation tournament with two points and two goals from its 2-0 victory Friday over the surprisingly skilled African champions, Zaire.

Brazil has one point from its goal-less opener against Yugoslavia. Yugoslavia met Zaire in Gelsenkirchen today in Group II's other match.

Both Brazil and Scotland are likely to make changes from the sides which opened the tournament.

Despite his previous acceptance of a draw, Zagallo knows only a victory can guarantee a second round berth—and that means his club will have to attack. He may bring in Edu, the brilliant left wing protege of the now retired Pele.

Scotland will play without veteran Denis Law, the Manchester City striker who at 34 is near the end of a fine career. That could mean 90 minutes of playing time for Coventry City's Tommy Hutchison, used as a substitute in the Zaire match.

Today's other games were both in Group I, where East Germany and West Germany top the standings with a victory and two points apiece. The West Germans, hot favorites to win the World Cup on their own territory, were expected to win easily over Australia at Hamburg. The East Germans were to meet Chile in Berlin.

Formality or not, the Hamburg match was expected to draw a capacity crowd who in any other circumstances would be rooting for the Australians. They made a lot of friends last week with a polished performance against East Germany, which survived a first half fright to win 2-0.

Wednesday brings out Groups III and IV, with Holland playing Sweden in Dortmund, Uruguay meeting Bulgaria in Hanover, Poland playing Haiti in Munich and Italy meeting Argentina in Stuttgart.

Players and NFL: Some Disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League Players Association says it represents rookies and free agents at the bargaining table despite management's views.

Representatives of the NFL Players Association will go to Lubbock, Tex., probably on Wednesday, to discuss the labor dispute with the players who will appear in the Coaches All-America game Saturday.

"We also have a letter going out to all rookies, explaining why there is a labor dispute," said Ed Garvey, union executive director. He said the rookies were being told to ignore a letter from John Thompson, Garvey's counterpart on the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining unit. Thompson said Sunday all NFL clubs have been sent letters urging rookies and free agents not to join the Players Association until the present contract impasse is settled.

The owners and the union apparently have reached an impasse in contract negotiations. The players have said that unless management agrees to their 63 demands, they will strike July 1 and attempt to close down the training camps and wipe out the preseason.

Thompson's letter told the rookies and free agents they would be entitled to any benefits won from collective bargaining whether or not they were members of union but only if they reported to camp training.

The owners and union had scheduled three days of meetings beginning today, but they were called off. Garvey said he hoped representatives of both groups could meet either Wednesday or Thursday to discuss pensions and insurance.

Joe DiMaggio: Same Old Class Guy

By IRA FUSFELD
GROSSINGER

What do you do when Joe DiMaggio sits down next to you?

For one thing you probably gulp. Now if you're a guy who was a devotee of the Yankees when Joe D. was in his heyday you more than likely look up in awe. Come to think of it, if you're anyone who has ever heard anything about Joe DiMaggio you look up in awe.

After that initial shock it's time to get your wits about you. Being a reporter assigned to pick up a story at the Tuesday Magazine Pro-Am Golf Tournament Monday at Grossinger's, we recovered with a swiftness we had never exhibited on any ballfield.

"Hi, Joe, how're you hitting them?"

How's that for an opening line?

Seriously, we did get to get a few minutes of Joe D.'s time while he munched a sandwich after his first nine had been completed. And just as we'd heard, when you talk about Joe DiMaggio you're talking about a guy with class, and that's class, with a large C.

Chalk it up to the way he carries himself as he walks around signing autographs or sitting down next to some small-city sports writer.

While we were speaking a gentleman came up to get Joe's autograph on a Polaroid photo he'd taken of him on the fairway. The picture was lousy. Joe looked more like Tom Thumb.

Instead of signing the picture and turning away, Joe looked up, thought for a second, and said, "Why don't you just get another shot of me with your wife?"

How many of your Hall of Famers would do that?

When he's not plugging something on TV, DiMaggio signs a lot of autographs on a lot of golf courses around the country these days.

"I dropped two shots off my handicap today," he smiled. "I'm playing to a 13. I'd better not play well or they may bar me from these things."

DiMaggio rarely sees his old team, the Yankees, play.

"They were coming into Oakland just as I was leaving," he said, adding, "it's not that I didn't want to see them, I had to leave anyway."

His primary contacts with baseball these days are his visits to Old Timer's Day at Yankee Stadium (this year Shea Stadium), and elsewhere around the circuit.

"I guess I've created something of a monster," he said, noting that he hopes to cut down the number of games at which he'll appear. "This will be my 23rd for the Yankees."

One thing that will never be the same for him is Yankee Stadium. Altough he'll be doing some photo work for the team concerning the rejuvenated ballpark, he admits it will never replace the one he's known.

A talk with Joe D. couldn't be complete without a mention of his old friend Fred Davi, the Glasco baseball promoter whom he's known for 25 years.

"Yes, we go back a long way," DiMaggio recalled. "He's very well thought of by everyone in baseball who knows him."

With that Joe D. finished his sandwich and with a wave moved off to the next tee. As he moved gracefully on you couldn't help but think of one word: class.

Bobby Heins Likes the Touring Life

BOBBY HEINS

By STEVE KANE
GROSSINGER

"Life is a drag, and I love it."

So said Bobby Heins, a man whose life these days is professional golf.

Heins was at Grossinger's Country Club Monday to play in the 1974 Tuesday Magazine Invitational Pro-Am. In the field against him were 34 other pros, most of whom were fresh from the narrow fairways of Winged Foot and the U. S. Open. Heins didn't make the Open this year, but he wasn't discouraged.

"I was playing poorly, but I'm starting to hit the ball lately," he said. "I was fifth alternate for Philly, then I was first alternate for the Open out of the Philly section."

As a tour rabbit, Heins must qualify on Monday for the few open spots each tournament has. Sam Snead pulled out of this year's Open, but the slot was filled by the first alternate from the Charlotte section where Snead qualified. It was a tantalizing example of what could happen, so Heins stayed optimistic.

"It's a lot of golf and a lot of time on the road. I can understand why guys like Nicklaus and Miller, guys who can afford it, take time off now and then."

There have been some bright spots for the Monticello rookie. He names them immediately — New Orleans, Memphis and Tallahassee.

"New Orleans was where I made my first cut. That was really a thrill. Sometimes you can play super, but the cut is 142 or something. This time I played well and made the cut too."

That feeling was soon surpassed when Heins fired his lowest round in competition to date — a 65 in the closing round at Memphis. It went along with the biggest check of his career.

Bobby is looking forward to the rest of the season. In particualr the Binghamton tourney where he thinks his chances are very good.

By contrast, Forest Fezler is just looking to the end.

"I just want to finish out the year," said Fezler, "that's my goal."

Not that Fezler was down on anything. After all, he'd just finished second in the biggest tournament of them all, the U.S. Open.

"I was tense all day," Fezler admitted. "I realized on 16 how close I was." That made the pressure all the greater on the young, four-year pro, but he responded with a pressure chip on the final hole to lock up second place.

"That was the greatest shot of the tournament," Heins said of Fezler's shot. But Fezler disagreed. "Irwin made it," he said.

Hale Irwin, the Open victor, saw the same scoreboard Fezler spotted when he got to the 17th. "He saw I was eight over," said Fezler. "That's when he had to make that putt to save a par and get a stroke to work with. Otherwise he'd have gone off 18 needing a par."

Fezler liked Winged Foot the site of the Open. He called it the fairest Open course he'd played. "Good shots are rewarded, but anything off line is a bogey. It's as simple as that. I didn't like Oakmont (last year's Open site), but Winged Foot was as an Open course should be."

That second place matches Fezler's previous high finish. In fact he won over $100,000 last year without ever winning a tournament.

Is that second place thing becoming a complex? Does it get frustrating never to win?

"No," Fezler answered firmly, "not at all. I've never really been in contention to win. I've been in the clubhouse early, or I've come on to take second, but I've never challenged for first. I'm just glad for what I've been able to do and for the publicity I've gotten."

One guy with plenty of firsts is Jim Colbert, he was also at Winged Foot, but he was not quite as happy with it as was Fezler.

It's the toughest course I've ever played," Colbert stated. But he wouldn't call it unfair.

"What is fair, anyway? Augusta, where they have another major tournament, doesn't have any grass longer than that green over there. Is that fair? There are all different kinds of fair."

Colbert thought the pin placements and the sand made Winged Foot so difficult. "Gary Player, who is the best sand player there is, couldn't make the ball spin out of those traps. The bunkers were deep, and hitting out of them to the undulating greens was impossible."

Maybe not quite impossible, Colbert still managed to tie for fifth. Even with the galleries that came to watch his playing partner, Arnold Palmer, Colbert was fifth.

"The galleries don't bother me," he said. "That's why we're out there."

Niekro Pain to Mets

(By Associated Press)

Phil Niekro missed his last turn with a pain in his neck. Monay night he was a pain in the neck to the New York Mets.

The knuckle-balling Atlanta right-hander fluttered a 4-hitter at the Mets and the streaking Braves made off with an 8-1 romp Monday night. It was the 22nd triumph in 30 games for the third-place Braves and left them just seven games behind Los Angeles in the National League's West Division.

In other National League action, the Los Angeles Dodgers had their lead reduced to six games when Ken Brett and the Pittsburgh Pirates thumped them 7-3. It was the Dodgers' fifth loss in the last seven games.

Cincinnati Reds torounced Montreal Expos 12-3 in Monday night's TV special for their 16th victory in 22 games.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Houston Astros 7-5; San Francisco Giants blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0; and the San Diego Padres edged the Chciago Cubs 7-5 in 13 innings.

Darrell Evans drove in two runs with a homer in the first innings and a single in the second and Rowland Office cracked a two-run double in the ninth, as New York starter Harry Parker was saddled with his sixth consecutive setback.

The Dodgers had their problems seeing and fielding the ball in Pittsburgh and six of the Pirates' runs were unearned.

"We made enough mistakes to lose two or three games," said Manager Walt Alston. "I was kind of pleased with Don Sutton's pitching, but we kicked the ball around a lot and didn't give him much support."

Pitch hitter Tony Taylor slammed his first homer of the season, a tie-breaking, two-run shot with two out in the eighth inning off Claude Osteen in the Phillies win.

Yankees Win

(By Associated Press)

Lou Piniella cracked a two-run homer in the seventh inning and the New York Yankees added three more runs in the eigth Monday night to defeat the California Angels 5-1 and hand the slump-ridden Californians their 11th loss in 14 games.

"It's a good thing I have a scenic drive home to San Clemente every day or I wouldn't have any fun at all," said skipper Bobby Winkles.

Rookie pitcher Frank Tannana served up the home run and the home-run pitch has been the Angels' rookie's downfall. He has surrendered 16 long-distance drives and is threatening to break the club record of 32 established by Tom Murphy, now with Milwaukee, in 1970.

In other American League action, Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians, who hasn't lost since opening day, reeled off his 12th straight win as the Tribe edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

"Perry is the best right-handed pitcher in the American League," noted Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner. "He's great."

Perry wasn't especially overpowering Monday night but was around at the end to see Jack Brohamer deliver the winning hit in the ninth. It scored Frank Duffy from second base.

Baltimore Orioles blanked the Minnesota Twins 1-0 as veteran Mike Cuellar notched his ninth straight win. He gave up only five hits. Bobby Grich's homer won it for the Orioles.

Detroit Tigers trimmed the Texas Rangers 6-5 and the Oakland A's beat the Boston Red Sox 3-2.

Al Kaline bleted a two-run homer with two out in the 10th to give Detroit its victory over Texas. Kaline's fourth homer of the season followed a single by Mickey Stanley and provided reliever John Hiller (7-4) with the victory.

Gene Tenace scored from third base in the ninth inning when Boston catcher Carlton Fisk threw wildly on a pickoff attempt at first, giving Oakland its victory over the Red Sox.

CHECKUP — Jim Curran checks over Gigolo N. his B-2 pacer at Monticello Raceway. Curran drove at the Mighty M on opening night in 1958 and has remained there ever since.

Raceway's Curran Easy Going Owner

MONTICELLO — Jim Curran is an Irishman, which may explain why green horses predominate in his stable.

"You feel like you've accomplished something with a green horse," he said. "Working with old animals you pick up second hand is just a chore."

Overseer of a 15-horse stable at Monticello Raceway, Curran is usually right there with the track's top percentage reinsmen. His up and coming hopefuls include Ward Eight and Sterlings Bret, a four-year-old Bret Hanover stallion. But he expects the most from Lindy's Phil, a two-year-old colt who "sure acts like a Grand Circuit potential".

Curran loves the challenge of driving a trotter, but has none in his barn now. "They take a long time to develope — the gait is tough and there are no hobbles to keep them in stride," he said. "Owners get impatient waiting. I had a barnful of trotters years ago, but they got old and lame."

A charter horseman at Monticello, Curran drove on the track's opening night 17 years ago. He remained at the Sullivan County oval ever since, with time out at Rossevelt and Yonkers, and winter training in Florida.

He has never driven regularly in Chicago, but is often confused with Bob Farrington's son-in-law Jim Curran, who makes his base out there.

"During the winter, I'd come up from Florida sometimes to drive," he said. "People would look in the newspapers and see I was working in New York and Florida. Then they'd see Jim Curran driving out in Sportsman's Park also. They'd ask me 'My God, when do you sleep?' I told them I slept on airplanes."

An avid golfer, the affable, easy-going Curran prefers not to stretch himself that thin. He concentrates on his own stock, and cath-drives only for friends. "I went down that route a long time ago," he said. "I'd train all morning and drive ten races at night. It was exhausting — I didn't have time for my family, for golf, or even to catch my breath."

Married and the father of a teenage daughter, Curran has balanced his fondness for green horses with a few old heads he picked up in their youth. The star of his stable is J.J. Lucky, a seven-year old who shows a 2:00.3 mark at Roosevelt, and has earned over $100,000 lifetime. He hurt his hind leg before he could race at Monticello, but Curran expects he'll be ready in another month.

Curran got his start grooming and training thoroughbreds at the old Aqueduct and Jamaica race tracks in New York. But before he could get his own eight horses stable started, the owner reneged and he was wiped out. He turned to the standardbreds and like what he saw. Curran worked for Del MacTavish at Roosevelt before heading out on his own.

Now he is firmly entrenched in Sullivan County. "I love it here," Curran said. "The area, the track and management are all great. They know and understand the needs of the horseman, and treat us really well."

Veteran harness driver Ben Webster who won his first race in 1958 reached the 1,500 victory plateau Sunday afternoon by driving a stirring come-from-behind win with Phil Collins in the $13,000 Monticello Raceway pacing feature.

Coming from dead last at the three quarters pole, Webster moved Phil Collins into a nose win at the wire over Command Performer N., with Wico Dares third.

The 2:04.3 win over a rain-sodden oval saw the favored Phil Collins post mutuel payoffs of $6.00, $4.40 and $3.80.

Adour who set the early pace for the feature gave over to Command Performer N. past the three-quarters, while Webster was moving Phil Collins on the rim past heavy traffic for a strong stretch bid that holed up in a photo.

Rain not only held down the turnout Sunday at the Might M but produced long-priced winners over the off-track. The 7-7 daily double returned $247.80, with White Fandango paying $15.40 in the first half and Norbet driven to a $29.40 triumph in the second by Jim Grundy.

With Sister Freehall ($40.80) leading off the third race trifecta, follwed home by Avon Knave and Lucky Pam, the triple registered $547.50.

Penguins Edge Kinglets In Women's Softball, 6-5

KINGSTON — Brenda Locke knocked in four runs with a pair of home runs to pace the Penguins to a 6-5 victory over the Kinglets in the Jaycee Women's Sostball League. The winners scored two in the top of the fifth.

Andrea DeBenedictis pitched a 7-hitter for the Peguins. Susan Holochuck, Patricia Albert and Sara Sellers each had two hits for Penguins.

Rose Blass stroked three singles for the Kinglets and Stephanie McSpirit had a pair.

A crowd of about 55 fans saw the re-scheduled game which was played in intermittent rain and stopped at the end of five and a half innings.

NEW YORK (AP)—When the 1924 baseball sason opened in Yankee Stadium, baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis arrived late for the pregame festivities. He got lost in the subway.

This year, in Atlanta's home opener, Henry Aaron homered the first time he swung his Louisville Slugger. It was his 715th career homer and broke Ruth's record.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

JAIL, DOPE: (Q) I have this awful, hearrtbreaking problem. I'm always crying and lonely. My fiance is always in jail. I take dope to try to have a happier life, but I am only happy when I am with him, and he is always in jail and they won't let me see him.

How can I get them to let me see him? He is 18 and I am 16. — Crying in California.

(A.) Think about it this way. If your fiance really wanted to see YOU he wouldn't be doing whatever it is that keeps him in jail all the time. So maybe you are wasting your life on him and on drugs.

I believe you are. Find other pastimes and other people with which and with whom you can be happier.

CHANGE: (Q) Susan was my best friend until recently. Now she tries to flirt with all of the guys. She tries to act popular but isn't. She ignorres me and my other friends. She seems to think she is too good for us.

Lately we have ignored her. Is this the right thing to do?

Ignored in Indiana

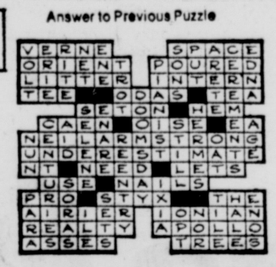

(A.) It is entirely possible that Susan sees she has made a mistake. It is entirely possible that she would welcome your friendship again but thinks she doesn't have a chance with you.

At least give her a chance. Be friendly and forgiving. If you will go halfway with her she may do the same for you.

Opening lead—♣Q

By Oswald and James Jacoby

We are indebted to Jan Wohlin of Stockholm for today's hand. South gets to a good three notrump contract after a Stayman response to his opening notrump bid.

He started out correctly by winning the club lead in his own hand. The next three tricks were taken by his ace and queen of diamonds and dummy's king. A fourth diamond lost to East's jack.

A club was led back to dummy's ace and the fifth diamond cashed. A successful heart finesse gave him his seventh trick, but the king failed to drop under the ace and he had to go down one.

Mr. Wohlin points out that South would have made his contract in spite of the bad break, if he just stopped to think when West showed out on the second diamond. South should simply overtake his queen with dummy's king; take a heart finesse and lead his three of diamonds to dummy's nine.

East would win and lead a club to dummy's ace. South would cash the last two diamonds and then take a second heart finesse.

The whole point would be that South would make the same four diamond tricks but would get one more heart trick.

Schlesinger Views Nuclear Pact With Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger apparently has some reservations about the new U.S. agreement to help Egypt build nuclear power plants.

Asked at a Monday news conference whether he would have recommended such aid to Egypt, Schlesinger said, "I think that I would have pointed out the advantages or the disadvantages of such a course of action."

Some Pentagon officials agreed with a reporter's impression that the defense secretary probably leans more against the idea than toward it. "I think he would have put the cons before the pros," one official said.

Schlesinger said, "We must accept the fact that normalization will imply that the various kinds of agreements into which the United States has regularly entered with a large number of governments . . . would likely be available" to Egypt or Israel.

Although he included Israel in this, it appeared Schlesinger had Egypt chiefly in mind because he referred to "normalization" of relations. The United States has recently restored normal diplomatic relations with Egypt after a seven-year break. U.S. relations with Israel never have been ruptured.

Critics in Congress questioned whether President Nixon's promise to supply nuclear materials and advice to Egypt for peaceful purposes might open the way to Egypt's developing nuclear weapons. No such criticism has been voiced against the similar U.S. commitment to Israel, which already has two nuclear reactors. Some experts believe the Israelis could build atomic weapons now, if they wished.

Schlesinger, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, told newsmen the U.S. aid in developing peaceful nuclear power plants "is not wholly without risk" in enhancing the potential for atomic weapons.

However, Schelsinger said, "I think that is a relatively slight risk, given the kinds of safeguard agreements that have been and will continue to be written by the United States."

Royalty Hike for Oil Exporting Nations

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The world's major oil exporting nations have agreed on a 2 per cent increase in royalty rates that should have a minimal effect on consumers.

The increase announced Monday by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries after a three-day meeting in the Ecuadorean capital is about 11 cents a barrel or a quarter of a cent a gallon.

With the royalty increase, the 13-nation meeting agreed to continue for another three months their freeze on posted prices put into effect last January.

Saudi Arabia, the biggest exporter, had proposed lowering prices while the other 12 OPEC members advocated some form of increase, either in the posted price or in taxes, to keep pace with inflation.

Saudi Arabia disassociated itself from the royalty increase, officially to await the outcome of its negotiations to take over more stock in the Arabian American Oil Co.

Monguno said the other countries voted for the nominal increase partly as a warning that OPEC would take tougher action unless the industrialized nations bring their galloping inflation under control.

That inflation stems in part from the quadrupling of oil prices by OPEC last year. But prices have been frozen since the first of the year and will now remain so through Sept. 30.

Royalty rates among OPEC members now vary between 12½ and 16 per cent. The conference statement said the increase was decided on as a first step toward uniformity.

In countries where the royalty rate already is 16 per cent, such as Venezuela, the government will raise taxes to get an equivalent amount, the statement said.

Arabian light crude, a commonly used oil benchmark, has a posted price of $11.65 a barrel and a royalty rate of 12½ per cent. The posted price is an artificial price on which the oil-exporting countries calculate their tax take. The 2 per cent increase would raise royalties by 23 cents to $1.69. But because the royalties and 10-cents-a-barrel production costs are subtracted from the posted price before calculating the taxes, the net increase works out to only 10 to 11 cents.

The total government take on taxes and royalties has been $7 a barrel. The oil companies have been selling the oil for between $9 and $9.50 a barrel.

WINDY QUEEN — Britain's Queen Elizabeth makes a face as a strong gust of wind billows her robes as she leaves St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle in Windsor, England. The queen was leaving after participating in the Order of the Garter ceremony. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Security Probe at Westminster Palace

LONDON (UPI) — The government ordered an urgent investigation today of security at the Palace of Westminster, where extremists bombed the historic and hallowed heart of Britain's government.

All signs appeared to indicate the attack was the work of the Irish Republican Army.

The minutes that followed the bomb explosion Monday vividly reminded older British residents of the wartime nights when German bombers rained fire on the palace beside the Thames.

Thick black smoke billowing from the shattered windows of Westminster Hall, at 900 years the oldest part of the complex, blotted out the face of Big Ben clock, the symbol of London.

Police said 11 persons were injured in the blast, including one woman who suffered a broken leg.

The bomb, estimated at 15 to 20 pounds, wrecked a kitchen area adjoining Westminster Hall, shattered the windows of the hall itself and at one point threatened to destroy it in fire started by a broken natural gas pipe.

The explosion went off within yards of the Houses of Commons and Lords, all part of the palace, and across the street from the equally historic Westminster Abbey where Britain's Kings and Queens are crowned.

Officials said damage to the Hall, while extensive, was not as serious as first feared. Hundreds of firemen got the blaze under control before it could reach the unique 13th century hammer roof beams.

The wartime German blitz badly damaged other parts of the palace but spared the ancient hall.

The building was erected in the 11th century and saw William the Conquerer crowned, King Henry VIII playing tennis, King Charles I tried and sentenced to beheading, and, more recently, Sir Winston Churchill lying in-state.

Scotland Yard officials said they had little to indicate the bomb was planted by any other than the Prdovisional wing of the IRA. As usual in such cases, the bomb was herdalded by a man giving a telephone tip.

Last Noisy July 4 Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It will be a noisy Fourth of July after all, but maybe the last one of that kind.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission Monday granted the fireworks industry a 30-day delay in the start of a nationwide ban on firecrackers and the beginning of new safety rules governing the manufacture of most other fireworks.

As a result, firecrackers will continue on the market until at least mid-July, after which time the commission will hold a public hearing to determine if some over-all revision is necessary in its new regulations.

Four trade associations representing Chinese manufacturers and American importers and wholesalers had asked for the delay, claiming they would be stuck with inventories valued at $50 million on the retail market if the ban started at 12:01 a.m. EDT today as originally scheduled.

The commission ruled Monday that the petition was legally sufficient to warrant the public hearing. The trade associations had raised other objections to the regulations beyond liquidation of inventories. They objected, for instance, to labeling requirements as well as to the scientific basis on which the agency made the safety rules.

But the commissioners seem adamant on the validity of their proposed firecracker ban, and it appeared likely that this would be the last year for an old fashioned, noisy Fourth around American homes, even if some other parts of the regulations are revised. The regulations do not affect public displays or use of fiecrackers for pest control.

The firecracker ban met particular opposition in Hawaii, where it was said to interfere with the religous freedom of Orientals.
